Shoot U.S. Technicians Arab Nationalists Told

Times News Services

The Palestine Liberation Organization has called on Arab nationalists to shoot American technicians who may be stationed in the Sinai Desert under the Israeli-Egyptian pact.

"The Palestinian revolution . . . regards the U.S. military presence in Sinai as an enemy target that should be shot by every struggler and every nationalist in our Arab nation," the PLO newspaper Al Thawra said in Beirut.

The newspaper called the proposed presence of the American civilian technicians at warning stations in the Gidi and Mitla passes "dual occupation" of Egyptian land by the United States and Israel.

"We are confident the first shot will be fired by an Egyptian soldier, because the Egyptians are known for their nationalism and will never allow an imperialist American flag to flutter over any spot of Arab territory," Al Thawra claimed.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told Congress in Washington today the cost of stationing the technicians in the Sinai would amount to no more than a "a few hundred million dollars."

In testimony before the house international relations committee, Kissinger also said the number of American personnel needed to man the stations at the Mitla and Gidi passes would never climb above 200.

"In three shifts the number on duty cannot exceed 75," Kissinger added.

On another Mideast front Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi says Israel and Syria will begin negotiating a new Golan Heights peace agreement next month.

Posties, Gov't Resume Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal union and government negotiators were to meet today with conciliation board chairman Judge Jean Moisan after a weekend halt in negotiations.

The planned resumption of meetings followed a strike threat on the weekend by the chief negotiator of the postal workers.

Judge Moisan of Quebec Superior Court returned on the weekend to his home at Arthabaska, Que., for personal reasons.

Spokesmen for both sides in the bitter dispute that could lead to a strike by postal clerks and inside workers by as early as Sept. 16, said the two parties would meet with Judge Moisan.

Jean-Claude Parrot, chief negotiator for the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, had said Saturday the talks had fallen apart and the government was not bargaining in good faith.

Both sides said there was a possibility the three-man conciliation board would ask for a second extension to the conciliation efforts before preparing a final report.

The 22,000-member union would be legally entitled to strike seven days after the conciliation report is handed to the public service staff relations board. The board had until Tuesday to continue talks.

A union spokesman said the two sides have not touched on the major issue in dispute—wages, automation and fringe benefits — and are still bogged down on smaller articles.

"If the employer does not begin to negotiate in good faith, there's no doubt we will go on strike," Parrot told reporters Saturday.

Parrot said in a press release that "the government now is behaving in a way which will deny the public its mail service."

"It seems to have no interest whatsoever in trying to reach a negotiated settlement," he said.

He said the union had been unable so far to achieve any of its objectives in such areas of reform of the grievance procedure, disciplinary procedures and seniortiy.

"Most of these are not very controversial items. What we want exists in many other collective agreements and yet we are running into a stone wall from the employer," said Parrot.

Beer Supply Limited

Limited stocks of bottled beer will continue to be available to Greater Victoria liquor vendors as Labatt's brewery carries on full production and absorbs the extra cost of using new bottles.

The Victoria brewery said today it is getting some stocks of empties from Courtenay, and other needs are being met through using new bottles, although at higher cost.

Bottled beer supplies ran out at most vendors during the weekend, and many licensed premises were also out or down to their last few cases as a strike of drivers and warehousemen of the Brewery Workers Union went into its fifth day.

On the mainland, where the strike at Pacific Brewers Distributrors Ltd. began Aug. 28, there is the threat of the dispute spreading Tuesday to interior outlets. Strike notice was served Saturday by 19 employees of Okanagan Valley Distributors, agent for Pacific Brewers Distributors, which could be struck as early as Tuesday.

That would affect beer supplies in Vernon, Kelowna, Penticton, Princeton and adjoining areas. Kamloops is already struck, having acted with Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Vic Woodland, manager of the provincial Liquor Administration Branch, said any licensee normally supplied by the Labatt brewery directly will continue to be supplied as long as the brewery operates.

Brewery trucks carry draught beer to hotel pubs using Labatt beer, and supply liquor vendors with bottled beer.

But houses using other brands of beer cannot get supplies of bottled or draught stocks because they rely on Pacific Brewers Distribtors.

BRISK BREEZES, bringing a hint of autumn, produced one of the fastest annual Thermopylae races on record on Sunday. Construction Job Cuts Threaten

A large portion of Greater Victoria's 6,000 construction workers could face unemployment this winter unless more projects are started soon, Construction Association of Victoria manager E. J. Phillips said today.

"We are concerned about the low level of tendering activity at this time," he said.

The drop follows a brisk first eight months with full employment in the construction industry.

He said a shortage of mortgage money and a sudden increase in interest rates could be major factors in the indicated downturn in construction.

Terry Farmer, president of Explorer Development Co. Ltd., an affiliate of Farmer Construction, said investors are concerned about a possible surplus in office buildings and they may be holding back for that reason.

Farmer said a vigorous program of office construction has been spurring the local economy during the first eight months but private enterprise is becoming wary of starting new office buildings until there is evidence of a demand for additional space. Some investors are interested in starting new buildings for warehouses and industrial projects but there is a shortage of available land for this type of project.

"All projects may be slowed down for a period because of the higher interest rates. That always gives investors second thoughts."

Gordon Reeson of Reeson and Pinch Homes Ltd. said there seems to be a surplus of office space in Victoria. High interest rates may delay starts in the apartment field,

CPU STRIKES RICHMOND CZ

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 485 members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union, Local 433, went on strike today at Crown Zellerbach Ltd.'s paper products division in Richmond.

The primary pulp and paper industry has been shut down since July 16 by strikes by 13,000 members of CPU and the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada.

All 20 pulp mills in British Columbia are closed and about 25,000 of the 29,000 members of the coast locals of the International Woodworkers of America are out of work because of soft timber markets and strikes by pulp workers.

FINE COMEBACK by Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen (right) earned him 6-4 victory over Oak Bay's Brian Smith in Return Battle of the Mayors during finals day Saturday of Second Annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament at Henderson Park. Smith beat Pollen 6-2 in last year's first "battle" and led 4-2 this time before Victoria Mayor took control. See story and other photos on Page 10. (Times photo by Irving Strickland)

NEWS BRIEFS

Bus Drivers Accept

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Stage Lines drivers have voted to accept a two-year contract that will give them parity with International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers truck drivers by Nov. 1, 1976, an amalgamated transit union spokesman said Sunday. ATU business agent Bill Link said workers voted to accept an agreement, which expires March 31, 1977, giving them a raise to $8.99 an hour from a base rate of $6.34 an hour by the second year of the agreement.

Statement Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — A statement on the bilingualism dispute involving aircraft pilots is expected from Transport Minister Jean Marchand within two days, spokesmen said today.

Bogota Slaying

BOGOTA (AP) — Gunmen in a speeding car assassinated the inspector-general of the Colombian army today as he was being driven to the defence ministry in a limousine.

Features Trimmed

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The Vancouver Province today began cutbacks in "less essential features" to save newsprint during the current strike in British Columbia's pulp and paper industry. The morning daily dropped its television guide, word puzzle and compressed its daily racing form, among other reductions. The afteronon Vancouver Sun is expected to soon announce similar cutbacks.

ROBBERY BY THE BOOK

DETROIT (UPI) — Life imitated art in Detroit again this weekend: Two gunmen robbed five passengers aboard a city bus.

It was the third consecutive weekend gunmen have robbed Detroit area buses, and the latest holdup mirrored a sequence in "Fifty-Two Pickup," a popular novel set in Detroit.

"I don't think these guys read books," a policeman said. "They just steal."

This time, police said, the gunmen got away with about $160 after hijacking the Greyhound bus. There were no injuries.

Boston: 80 Arrests In Busing Protest

Times News Services

BOSTON — Riot-garbed police clashed with hundreds of rock and bottle-throwing demonstrators near Charleston High School today and at least 80 persons were arrested near South Boston High as the city began its second year of court-ordered classroom desegregation.

An estimated 400 anti-busing demonstrators gathered in front of a housing project a block downhill from the Charlestown school, hurling rocks and bottles, shouting epithets and throwing the burning effigy of a black man from the top of a building.

Charlestown High was not involved in the opening phase of desegration last fall.

Foes of busing, who staged a small, peaceful demonstration at city hall Sunday, vowed a boycott of classes similar to one which dropped high school attendance on opening day last year to 59.9 per cent.

Motorcycle police were assigned to escort buses to and from school and a police helicopter was used to spot any roving gangs.

An additional 500 guardsmen were placed on active duty in the state and units of the 82nd Airborne Division, at Fort Bragg, N.C., were placed on standby.

Officials had feared a police contract dispute might lead to a "sick-in" by police today. But Chester Broderick, president of the Boston police patrolman's association, urged all members to "be on the line."

Meanwhile, in Louisville, Ky., armed police and National Guardsmen rode school buses today after four days of anti-busing violence in which an estimated 200 persons were injured and about 500 persons were arrested.

U.S. District Court Judge James F. Gordon issued the order Sunday following the weekend of violent protests.

Todd Hollenbach, the county's chief executive, blamed the problems on the Ku Klux Klan, outsiders and "the frustrated and the drunken."

Authorities would "Move swiftly with as much force as is necessary to maintain public order," he said.

B.C. Fed Slams Beryl

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor attacked the federal Food Prices Review Board and chairman Beryl Plumtre today.

Federation secretary Len Guy said in a prepared statement he disagrees with the board's call for B.C. government intervention in the wage dispute that has shut 125 Vanouver area supermarkets.

Guy said government intervention would discriminate against the workers and amount to "nothing more than a backdoor attempt at wage controls without even any mention of price control"

The federation said the board conducted a study which concludes a freely-negotiated settlement would result in "unreasonable wage gains," but did not define what is reasonable

RIOT POLICE BREAK UP PARTY

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-four persons, ranging in age from 16 to 20, were held in custody overnight after 35 RCMP officers and police dogs were called in to break up a party Saturday that degenerated into an unlawful assembly.

An RCMP spokesman said the 24 persons, two of them girls, will appear Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in court — eight of them appearing each day. Charges would probably be laid Monday or Tuesday.

Those arrested during the near-riot were released from jail Sunday on promises to appear in court.

A crowd, which numbered as many as 300 at the peak of the incident, hurled bottles, rocks and insults at police. Two RCMP officers suffered minor injuries and a British Columbia Hydro bus driver was dragged from his vehicle and jostled.

Police were first called to the party in the 300-block of Queens Avenue about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The situation deteriorated until about 1:30 a.m. Sunday when police used a hailer three times to urge the crowd to disperse. When this was ignored, 20 police in riot gear moved in and began making arrests.

7 Sought On Missing Plane

A search was mounted today for four adults and three children, missing on a flight from Rivers Inlet to Vancouver.

Names of the missing are being withheld until next of kin are notified by a Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman said missing are three adult passengers, the pilot and three children.

The spokesman said the Cessna 180 aircraft was last reported Sunday evening when it set down at Sullivan Bay on North Broughton Island in Kingcombe Inlet.

He said Sullivan Bay was one hour and 20 minutes flying time from Vancouver.

Senior Turf Man Quits

The vice-president and director of B.C. Turf Ltd. is resigning from the organization which represents about half of the B.C. Jockey Club in protest against the British Columbia Racing Commission's recent handling of a jockey's suspension.

Arthur Fouks, a Vancouver lawyer, said today he would leave racing in B.C. after 15 years' involvement.

In a letter to Attorney-General Alex Macdonald, Fouks said the commission's action represented a "blatant injustice" to the rights of Alan Cuthertson.

He asked Macdonald to order an independent inquiry into the incident.

Cuthbertson was suspended for three days by the Exhibition Park board of stewards for careless riding of a horse in a race Aug. 23.

Cuthbertson sought and was granted an injunction Aug. 28 from the B.C. Supreme Court, allowing him to ride until his appeal could be heard by the commission. The commission heard the appeal the following day and upheld the steward's decision.

Fouks said the appeal hearing was held without Cuthbertson having legal counsel of his choosing present and the commission's decision was "vindictive and tantamount to penalizing one because he pursued his inherent civil rights."

Deputy attorney-general David Vickers said today his department would be looking into the matter but could not say what action, if any, would be taken.

Daisy Webster Bowing Out

Daisy Webster (NDP-Vancouver South), will not seek re-election, she announced today.

A member of the legislature since 1972 and wife of the former leader of the provincial New Democratic Party, Arnold Webster, she said she was withdrawing from active politics for personal reasons.

"Being a politician is a fulltime job," she said in an interview from her home in Vancouver. "Although I have enjoyed it as an absorbing and fulfilling experience I want to be able to spend more time with my family."

She said she was announcing her decision now as a nomination convention will be held in her riding this Sept. 21.

Mrs. Webster, who was 64 this July, has been a member of the NDP and its predecessor the CCF, for 20 years. Throughout she has been an ardent supporter of women's rights.

Her greatest satisfaction, she said, has been in helping people with problems to solve.

"As an MLA I found I could cut a great deal of red tape."

She was instrumental in getting the provincial education department to provide supplementary aid to Vancouver schools to develop special programs for non-English speaking immigrant children — a responsibility she still feels should rest with the federal government.

Mrs. Webster said she will complete her term in office and in retirement continue living in the family home in the Point Grey district of Vancouver.

Nazi Salute Greets S. African

BONN (Reuter) — Anti-apartheid demonstrators greeted South African Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller with Nazi salutes when he arrived here Sunday on an unofficial visit to West Germany.

About 60 demonstrators were at the protest rally at the main railway station when Muller arrived from The Hague.

They carried banners which described him as a Nazi and protesting against alleged West German arms deliveries to white-ruled South Africa.

When Muller left the station the demonstrators lined the street, giving the Nazi salute and shouting "Sieg heil." They did not attempt to obstruct his car and there were no incidents with police.

Despite the unofficial nature of Muller's visit, he will meet West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher on Wednesday, to discuss among other things, developments in white-ruled Rhodesia.

Hostage Standoff In Paris

Times News Services

PARIS — Gangsters armed with automatic weapons are holding seven persons hostage in a bank here today and demanding a $1.35-million ransom.

The bank is near the Invalides, which houses Napoleon's tomb.

Police gave no immediate indication of a deadline or any threat to the lives of the hostages if the ransom is not supplied. But police reinforcements and sharpshooters were posted around the bank with orders to shoot whenever possible.

Police said there were either two or three gangsters involved.

The gunmen had gas masks as well as a sawed-off shotgun and pistols.

Bursts of automatic-weapon fire were heard after the gangsters holed up in the bank but it was not known whether there were any injuries.

MILAN, — A band of bandits surrendered and released 16 hostages held inside a bank without carrying out a threat to kill the captives one by one unless they received a $300,000 ransom.

The eight-hour drama ended after the gunmen told assistant district attorney Ferdinando Pomarici they would surrender and release the hostages on condition they leave the bank unhandcuffed and be taken immediately to their lawyer's office, where Pomarici could then order their arrest.

Hang-Glider Fatality No. 3

A Richmond man who died after a hang-gliding accident Saturday two hours after his hang glider crashed two miles west of Hope.

He was participating in an unregulated fly-in of B.C. hang-glider pilots and was the third hang-glider pilot killed in B.C. this summer.

Don Whitmore, who participated in the fly-in with about 30 others, said experienced pilots decided that conditions were unsafe on Hope mountain but did not stop a group of intermediate pilots, including Blake Walley from flying.

"It was just a fly-in," Whitmore said Sunday. "People do what they want. There was no regulation."

zine, said Israel would then begin negotiating a similar military disengagement pact with Jordan.

He told the magazine he thought a full-scale Middle East peace conference would be reconvened in Geneva before the end of the year.

"I am sure that another Israeli-Syrian disengagement is imminent, and it will be followed by a disengagement on the Palestinian (Jordanian) front," Fahmi told the magazine.

Meanwhile Christian and Moslem gunmen battled with bombs and bullets in the streets of Tripoli today in religious warfare darkened by a bus massacre and the bombardment of a hospital.

The flareup of fighting came at the start of a second week of escalating warfare in divided Lebanon.

AT least 29 persons were killed and 73 injured Sunday in clashes that included the massacre of 12 persons on a bus, the torture slaying of a diplomat's son and the bombing of a hospital.

Two bomb blasts and sporadic bursts of bullet fire rocked Beirut Sunday night, touching off fears that the eight-day-old strife would spread to the Lebanese capital.

More than 2,200 persons were killed or wounded in Beirut last April, May and June.

Toll Now 1,309

BELFAST (AP) — A British army patrol found the body of a man with gunshot wounds in the head in the Lower Markets area of Belfast early today. This raised the confirmed death toll in the war between Northern Ireland's Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority to 1,309 since mid-1969.

Unemployment Looms

although it was a little early, to be sure, he said.

Phillips, of the Construction Association, said the decline in tendering in August came as a bit of a shock after a good first half year. Building permits issued in Victoria City during August fell to under $6 million, down from $21.3 million the previous August.

First to feel the effects of a construction downturn would be the 2,700 area workers in the starting trades such as excavators, carpenters, laborers and sheet metal workers.

Phillips said the decline apparently reflects the shortage of mortgage funds and high interest rates.

However, it would be relatively easy for companies with plans on the drawing board to push them ahead to tendering now to pick up the slack in the construction economy.

"It would be to the advantage of everyone to do this, the owners included, because it is obviously to their advantage to get six bids rather than three. Any new project would attract a wide base of bidding."

The downturn indicated for the future is a great disappointment after a strong first eight months, Phillips said.

Construction activity was very strong this summer and August was one of the best months in recent years. The employment level in construction is higher than at the same time last year.

But it is a case of feast and famine unless there is a dramatic change in the level of tendering, he said.

The provincial and municipal governments could assist by speeding up their schedules on installing services for construction could get underway before the rainy season begins in January, he said.

The outlook for construction along with the downturn in the forest industry were the only major weak spots noted in an economic survey of the region prepared by Stan Purdy, regional manager for Canada Manpower.

Purdy said retail trade during August was at least as good as in August, 1974, and the numbers of persons employed in city stores was above last year's level. Some stores are seeking part-time workers for fall.

Manufacturing was at a low level during August with only 130 of the area's 1,600 forest products workers on the job but this total fluctuates from week-to-week with the continuing labor dispute.

However, the shipbuilding industry is very bouyant with 900 men at work and a $12.8 million ferry order, among other projects.

There are 100 employed at the local fish packing plant but this will fall to about 50 this month, as is normal, with the decline in fish catches.

Agricultural workers are in demand as harvest is under way in apples, cabbage, cauliflower and potatoes.

Despite a decline in hiring by the provincial government, vacancies continue to become available at the rate of between 40 and 50 a week.

The small cars with the Chrysler warranty: the first year's on us

1975 Plymouth Cricket & Dodge Colt

Before we tell you what the 1975 Plymouth Cricket and Dodge Colt are all about, we'd like you to know what the Chrysler warranty is all about.

It's one of the best reasons to buy a new car from us.

Basically, the Chrysler warranty means that you're covered for parts and labour for as far as you can drive in the first year you own your new Cricket or Colt.

The first year's on us, and the mileage is unlimited (taxis and police cars excepted). That's the way we take care of the people who buy our cars.

We also give them a lot for their money.

For instance, Plymouth Cricket and Dodge Colt feature reclining front bucket seats, full floor carpeting, an adjustable steering column, tinted glass, front disc brakes and plenty more—all standard. There's a wide choice of models: coupes, hardtops, sedans, sports models and great little wagons, all available with standard shift or automatic.

No matter how you want to go small, we've got you covered.

Stop in and see the 1975 Plymouth Cricket and Dodge Colt lines at your Dodge and Plymouth dealer's.

Our '75s use any gas—leaded or unleaded!

Ford Stays On Soapbox

WASHINGTON— (UPI) — President Ford has decided to continue his personal style of campaigning despite an assassination attempt three days ago, a White House spokesman said today.

Ford intends to go to New Hampshire Thursday to campaign for Louis Wyman, the Republican candidate in a special Senate election, and to leave Friday on a two-day trip through Missouri, Kansas and Texas for a mix of political and other public appearances.

Asked if Ford would alter his style during these or other future engagements for security reasons, Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters, "He has not indicated that he would" make any changes.

"He plans to continue getting out and meeting the people," Nessen said.

Nessen said he could not speak for the secret service when asked if the agents might start operating differently as a result of last Friday's assassination attempt in Sacramento, Calif.

But he said neither Ford nor any of his top advisers had talked with secret service officials about that incident and "I haven't heard of any plans at the White House to do anything or to ask for anything" in the way of an investigation into protection given Ford in California or elsewhere.

Meanwhile, Lynette Alice Fromme, leader in absentia of the Manson cult, told a jailer she had to try to assassinate Ford because nobody paid attention to what she was saying.

The tiny, red-haired Miss Fromme, 26, nicknamed "Squeaky" by convicted mass murderer Charles Manson because of her high-pitched voice, was held today on $1 million bail in an isolation cell at Sacramento jail.

She was reported in "good spirits" and maintaining a vegetarian diet.

Miss Fromme pointed a .45 caliber pistol at Ford Friday and became the first woman ever to try to assassinate a president. The weapon did not fire.

A jailer told of a conversation with the 5-foot-3 woman after she was wrestled to the ground by a secret service agent when she aimed the pistol at the president.

"Well you know," he quoted her, "when people around you treat you like a child and pay no attention to the things you say, you have to do something."

Federal investigators said they had no evidence "at this time" of a conspiracy in the assassination attempt Friday at the state capitol. Agents interviewed Manson at San Quentin Prison after Miss Fromme's attack but said Manson would not respond to specific questions.

The U.S. attorney planned to present full charges against Miss Fromme to a federal grand jury Wednesday.

Civilian Politicians Called Up by Portugal

LISBON (AP) — Portugal's military president and the premier-designate are pressing the country's leading civilian politicians to return to the cabinet following the removal from power of pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Goncalves.

Sources close to President Francisco da Costa Gomes and Vice-Admiral Jose Pinherio de Azevedo, the premier-designate, said they hope to reach agreement with the Socialists, Popular Democrats and Communists by Tuesday.

But the Socialists and Popular Democrats, who together polled two-thirds of the vote in the April election of a constitutional assembly, were reported reluctant to join a cabinet containing the Communists.

Informed sources said if the anti-Communists hold out, Costa Gomes and Pinheiro de Azevedo may decide to go ahead without them.

Gen. Carlos Fabiao, the army chief of staff and one of the architects of Goncalves' fall, commented in a speech Sunday that the political parties "are having enormous difficulties reaching agreement among themselves, and the only way to overcome these difficulties is to achieve an understanding with the masses."

Earlier the powerful security chief, Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, warned that the military leaders would appeal directly to the people, over the heads of the politicians, unless the parties come to heel.

Goncalves and his cabinet resigned again early Sunday following his expulsion on Friday from the Revolutionary Council. The president's office announced that Costa Gomes accepted the resignations.

This left Portugal without a government, but that is nothing new. Since the Socialists precipitated the political crisis six weeks ago by quitting the cabinet, the civil service has been running the government while the military and political leaders manoeuvred.

Saanich Man Survives Train-Car Collision

A 19-year-old Saanich man is in good condition in Mission Memorial Hospital today following a train-car collision Saturday night in which one woman died.

Richard Leo Horne was driving the vehicle which got stuck on a railway crossing about four miles west of Mission.

The car was hit by a freight train about 10:55 p.m. and dragged 700 feet along the tracks, Mission RCMP said.

Anita Marie Baker, 38, of Vancouver was killed and Horen received head, arm and leg abrasions.

Another passenger, Vernon Harry, 35, of Vancouver received multiple injuries and was transferred to Royal Columbian Hospital where he is in fair condition today following an operation.

The third passenger, 17-year-old Bruce Grant of Vancouver, was outside the car trying to flag down the train when it struck, so escaped injury, police said.

ICELAND CUTS TRAWLS

REYKJAVIK (AP) — An Icelandic coast guard vessel cut the hauling ropes of a West German fishing trawler Sunday in a flare-up of the cod war between the two countries.

The coast guard claimed the trawler from Bremerhaven was fishing illgeally, 34 nautical miles off Iceland's southwest coast. Iceland claims a 50-mile fishing limit, which West German fishing trawlers have refused to recognize.

On Saturday, the coast guard vessel overtook another West German trawler and cut its ropes at a point 67 miles off the coast, a coast guard spokesman reported. He said the fishing vessel had been first spotted inside the 50-mile limit.

The coast guard complained that West German support ships were watching the movements of coast guard vessels and radioing information to the fishing vessels to enable them to avoid capture. It called on the government to stop all services to German support ships in Icelandic ports as long as they spy on patrols and warn the fishermen.

QUEBEC DEFENDS LANGUAGE ACT

MONTREAL (CP) — The Official Language Act was defended by Quebec officials during the weekend while a local radio station's petition opposing the act gathered national support.

Premier Robert Bourassa, Education Minister Jerome Choquette and Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde all supported the act — also known as Bill 22 — which makes French Quebec's official language.

Choquette, interviewed at suburban Outremont's centennial celebration Saturday, said the language law may not be perfect, but added in a later radio interview that language requirements in Ontario schools were stricter than those in Quebec.

In Ontario, he said, English-speaking students cannot choose to go to a French school.

"Freedom of choice in education is something that is not necessarily a basic fundamental right," he told the radio audience.

"I must say, as a matter of principle, I'm not a believer in freedom of choice."

Choquette was referring to a clause in the law stipulating that students whose mother tongue is not English must pass examinations to attend English-language classes.

Immigrant parents whose children were denied admission to English-language schools under the law's educaton provisions had staged a series of protests last week.

Meanwhile, the premier said in a radio interview Sunday that opponents of the act should compare it with language options of other Quebec political parties.

He told listeners on radio station CKAC that "we are in fact the only party in the province where the opponents can command respect for their point of view."

The premier said he was generally satisfied that the reopening of schools last week went well, "with certain exceptions."

"It is inevitable," he said "that in the linquistic and cultural situation we have in Quebec, there should be prolems in applying terms of Bill 22."

In another radio interview, Lalonde said the provincial government may review certain applications of the act in cases where it conflicts with individual rights.

But, the solicitor-general told listeners on radio station CJAD, "I think Bill 22 as a whole is necessary for the development of French culture in Quebec, and the protection of the French faction in Canada."

Amnesty For Draft Dodgers?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House of Representatives subcommittee has approved an amnesty bill for U.S. draft evaders and soldiers who deserted or refused to obey an order that would lead to killing because of their opposition to the Indochina war.

The amnesty would go only to persons who signed a certificate declaring their acts "resulted because of disapproval of the military involvement of the United States in Indochina."

Besides draft resisters and deserters, amnesty would go to servicemen who refused to obey orders they reasonably believed would lead directly to killing.

Known as the Vietnam Era Reconciliation Act, the bill was approved by the House civil liberties subcommittee Friday.

Chairman Robert W. Kastenmeier (Dem.-Wis.) said he did not know if Congress will approve the bill but believes there is a chance it will.

The Singleminded Bank of Canada

The Bank of Canada's decision to raise the prime lending rate by three-quarters of one per cent from 8¼ per cent amounts to the wrong solution for the right reasons. Whenever the bank perceives inflation rising, the knee-jerk response is invariably to raise the prime lending rate, thereby tightening the money supply and hopefully slowing down credit purchases. It's an old Keynesian instrument that doesn't seem to work much any more. Credit buying is so ingrained in the Canadian psyche, thanks in part to the chartered banks' advertising programs, that people go on purchasing regardless of interest rates. The 20 per cent plus interest rates of the booming finance companies attest to this.

But it is the side-effects of the bank's decision which are more difficult to understand. Raising the prime rate ensures that mortgage rates will rise to at least 12 per cent. This at a time when the vast majority of working Canadians cannot afford to buy their own homes. Higher mortgage rates will also postpone many housing starts, resulting in less employment and a continuing slump in the forest industry. Higher lending and mortgage rates will certainly be reflected in labor's demands for higher wages, not without justification either.

As the federal government continues to spend with wild abandon — the deficit amounts to $1.314 billion from April to July — the Bank of Canada appears to be going its singleminded way. If Ottawa is really interested in tightening credit — a laudable aim which it might apply to itself as well as the country — it should start by getting tough with the chartered banks' credit practices. Almost every sector of the economy has pleaded with Ottawa to make mortgage interest payments tax deductible yet Finance Minister John Turner's June budget threw only a few crumbs to housing and went its merry way fleecing the average Canadian at ever higher levels through increased gasoline and other taxes.

The net effect of the bank's bumbling decision will mean more profit for Canada's monopolistic chartered banks while the average Canadian will become progressively poorer as he vainly searches for a home he can afford.

Prime Minister Trudeau's complacent administration should end these feudal economic practices so arrogantly practiced by the gnomes in the Ottawa Valley. The Bank of Canada is supposedly an instrument of national policy, not an eccentric institution mired in the philosophies of the 1930s.

"... when do we get paid? ..."

A Feudal Custom

As discouraged job-seekers will tell you, it's not what you know, it's who you know that brings employment. In provincial politics, the same adage applies, with one additional clause: it's who you chose for parents. Political dynasties on this continent aren't limited to the Kennedy clan.

A quiet draft appears to be developing for Gordon Gibson, the MLA with a year's experience, to replace David Anderson as Liberal leader in British Columbia. No small part of Gibson's appeal to Liberals must be the fact that his father was Gordon Gibson, the dynamic "bull of the woods" who made headlines in the mid-1950s with his charges that money talked in the allocation of forest resources.

The last Liberal leader but one, Pat McGeer, traded in part no doubt on his name. He is the nephew of Gerry McGeer, a Liberal MLA 50 years before Dr. McGeer's time, a crusader for economic reform, an unpredictable MP and senator and a flamboyant mayor of Vancouver whose name still means something to old-timers.

Name-dropping isn't confined to the Liberal party. The present attorney-general, Alex Macdonald, is only following his father's (Liberal) footsteps, and if a certain other freshman MLA's name had been Jones or Brown it is highly unlikely he would be leading Social Credit in B.C. today. New Democratic Party MLA Peter Rolston's grandmother was the lone woman minister in the first Bennett cabinet.

It seems odd for a profession that claims to be at the centre of events, the cutting edge of change, to be burdened with such a feudal custom. The laws of primogeniture haven't applied in North America for a long, long time, and fortunately, no longer are sons and grandsons and great-grandsons expected as a matter of course to continue in the vocations of their forebears, shoeing horses or ploughing furrows or speaking from the stump.

It's time our politicians were at last liberated from this feudal custom. There ought to be a law — only one politician to a family.

Sane Laws

I should like to comment on the letter from R. B. C. Terry, Church and Dictators, in reply to mine on that subject.

It is indeed strange that in western democracies where one church has not had a powerful influence such as the U.S., Canada, the U.K. and most of western Europe the seeds of communism have not born fruit whereas in Italy and France, where the church wields great power these two countries have the largest communist parties outside the Iron Curtain bloc. Your correspondent also does not amplify his Polish example by stating that, prior to the Communist takeover, Polish power was in the hands of the very few rich and no one heard of any objections from the Roman Catholic church. Of course the same applied to Hungary.

I hail from southern Ireland where today divorce, abortion and contraceptives are legally prohibited due, in large measure, to the power of the church. I am not in favor of Hollywood divorces, abortion on demand or irresponsible family planning but I do know after many years in Ethiopia and four Latin American countries the curse of uncontrolled birth rates.

I believe in sane laws and that we should not live in a dream world dictated by any one body of our society.

Your correspondent writes of left-wing dictatorships being hostile to the church but he does not add that the church has always been hostile to liberalism and sane progress. Even the late Cardinal Spellman approved of the U.S. tragedy in Vietnam with the slaughter of countless innocent men, women and children. I doubt very much if his Master, Christ, would have approved of such a travesty of justice. The world will progress in spite of the Roman Church or any other conservative body. — M. P. B. Wrixon, 301-1701 Cedar Hill Road.

Dubious Schemes

It was interesting to see the "threatened closure" of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, written under two separate articles in the Times of Sept. 3.

In the first, titled If NDP Re-elected VSE May Close, total blame was, as usual, laid at the door of the government, with VSE president Cyril White doing a "typical promotion."

The other article on the financial page was titled No More Free-Wheeling Market?, and quoted a former stock exchange president, Michael Ryan.

Mr. Ryan was able to see that B.C.'s Mineral Royalties Act, and the federal government's capital gains tax were but two of many moves that are part of a world-wide change in attitudes toward get-rich-quick promotions. The 1960s and early 1970s with free-wheeling speculation on the province's resources are over. The slick promoter is considered gross. Socialist measures that return control to the residents are in increasing evidence in most countries of the world.

It would seem then, that those who would lead us back to the 1960s and who personify the get-rich-quick promoter are fast becoming an anachronism in the real world.

Congratulations to Mr. Ryan for his objective wisdom. — N. Nicol, 1475 Banff Place.

Foreign Investment

Re the article Independence Signs Pasted in the Times of Sept. 3:

I wonder if the members of the Canadian Liberation Movement are aware of the chaos that would hit this country if the Americans were to take their signs seriously and withdraw all their invested money from Canada. I am all in favor of complete Canadian autonomy but I also know that the reason Americans invested money in our resources is because they were willing to gamble on a sure thing when Canadians refused to recognize one. Let us work toward Canadian economic independence but we surely don't need to use hate propaganda.— Amy E. Cadorette, Shawnigan Lake.

CANADA:

Close Universities, Abolish Welfare Or Face Economic Collapse by 1977

By RICHARD NEEDHAM

"If you're so smart, why aren't you rich?" That's a good question to throw at me. I write a good deal about business and finance; I make predictions, some of which actually come true; I issue warnings, to which nobody pays the slightest attention. For all of this, I'm something less than rich, as the world understands that word. I'm wealthy only by Thoreau's definition; I have simple tastes; I do well by doing without.

That brings me to a letter from a reader, who noted my statement of June 23 that I expected the Canadian and American dollars to lose half their purchasing power in the next 12 months, and asked for suggestions on the best way to handle one's money.

Why do I think the North American dollar is going to fall far and fast? There are many reasons, all of them interlocking like pieces in a jigsaw puzzle. Perhaps the biggest part, the key part, of the puzzle has to do with morality or morale, as you may wish to call it. It seems to me that in the 30 years of affluence that followed the Second World War, the people of the Western world — the English-speaking peoples especially — became soft and silly and fat and flabby and disorderly and dishonest. They wouldn't face reality, wouldn't even listen to reality. They acted as if the world owed them a living.

In Canada, the United States, Britain, work seems to have become, you might say, a four-letter word; same thing with duty. Who any longer wants to make an effort, to accept responsibility, to stay on the job till the job is done?

Canada (unlike the U.S.) was founded on strong, quasi-military concepts of loyalty, order and justice — not "social justice" (whatever that may be) or "economic justice" either, but plain ordinary justice; keep the peace or get chopped.

We Canadians seem to have forgotten all this. Instead of having duties, all of us now have "rights" and what extraordinary "rights" these are! Just because you're a human being resident in Canada, you're entitled — without raising a finger, without even behaving yourself — to all of life's necessities and a good many of its luxuries. The guy on welfare in Toronto or on strike in Montreal lives immeasurably better than the one working his head off in Hong Kong.

This, as I say, is the big factor — the moral one. We've become, in the broad sense, immoral; and this leads to punishment — which our rivals and enemies are daily inflicting upon us; which we, indeed, are inflicting upon ourselves. It isn't the Russians who are destroying the British pound; or the Chinese who are destroying the Canadian dollar; or the Japanese who are destroying the American dollar. London, Washington, Ottawa are the guilty parties. Or are they? The British and American and Canadian Governments could easily plead that in spinning the presses, they're only doing what the people want or appear to want — democracy and all that.

During the first six months of this year, Canada's Unemployment Insurance Commission paid out some $1.7 billion in benefits, which suggests to me that the total bill for 1975 will be some $4 billion. This comes out to about $800 for every household in Canada. It is also the amount which the Canadian Government spent for all purposes just two decades ago.

It's true Canada's population has increased a bit since that time. It's true that the 1975 dollar bears little resemblance to the 1955 one. But the big upsurge in Ottawa's spending (not to mention that of the provinces and municipalities) is one of the many reasons why the dollar has gone down so far. Once governmental spending in general goes beyond 20 per cent of the national income (it's now around 40 per cent) the money can't be obtained through the ordinary process of taxing. It has to be done by inflation, the most vicious and destructive tax of them all.

The idea persists — in Canada as well as in the U.S. — that if only you pump enough new money into the system, everybody will be working again, spending again. Meanwhile, it is felt that the armies of unemployed in Canada, Britain, the United States must be lavishly supported with public money, also the armies of people on welfare, also the druggies, criminals, street hoodlums and all the rest. Governments are finding they must pay out huge sums merely to keep some kind of order; you may well imagine what would happen in Detroit if the welfare stopped coming; what will happen in Detroit when the welfare stops coming.

There's no doubt in my mind that oil prices will go up far and fast in the coming year — (1) because exploration and development must be encouraged; and (2) because the OPEC nations will want a big boost come October. Food prices must go up if the farmers are to keep producing it for domestic — and, especially, foreign — markets. Food's one thing we Canadians really can sell to the world. Big wage increases today will require big price increases tomorrow — and many more big wage increases are on the way. Wholesale prices are still zooming up. In all, everybody wants more money, which means, under our democratic system, that they'll get more money; said money to be obtained by rolling the presses.

Respect for order wanes, anarchy increases.

What can middle-class people do to protect themselves against inflation? I've read millions of words on this subject, telling them they should put their money into canned meat, works of art, real estate, farms, gold, machine guns, bottles of Scotch, mining and oil stocks. I wouldn't venture to give advice on this to anybody. I'd only say that what savings I have are going into the short-term stuff that your bank or trust company will tell you about. But I'm taking a loss on it. The interest can't keep up with the inflation. I'm also travelling a good deal, which seems to me a form of investment — investment in myself. "They can't take that away from me."

There are three bits of advice I would give. Firstly, read up on previous great inflations; especially those in Germany and France as mentioned above. That way, you'll be prepared for the worst, which is what the French and Germans certainly got. Secondly, learn to live cheap; most of the people in the world make it on rice, beans, macaroni, cabbage, potatoes; so can you. Thirdly, recognize that our 30-year party is over. No more wonderful nonsense about everybody being "entitled" to everything his little heart desires. Regardless what party we may elect, regardless what form of government we may end up with, we must get back to work, order, discipline. The figures alone make that much clear.

I've been brooding about some things Canada might do if — and that's a big if — it wants to get rid of inflation.

First of all, I should think, it would make the Bank of Canada completely independent of the government in power at Ottawa. (This was the thing James Coyne fought to assert some 15 years ago; he lost. On the other hand, the German government of 1923 ended its disastrous inflation by giving the Reichsbank total independence under Hjalmar Schact.) Better still, abolish the Bank of Canada; and let its functions, notably the issue of money, be taken over by a consortium of the chartered banks. The aim of all this would be in the short term to stop printing money (we've too much of the damn stuff already) and in the long term to get back on the gold standard.

Let all our governments — federal, provincial and municipal — balance their budgets, meanwhile reducing taxes annually to the point where these taxes take 20 per cent (or less) of the national income, as against the present 40 per cent. Abolish all tariffs on manufactured goods, thus forcing Canadian industry to compete with the industry of other nations, on domestic markets and in the world.

Freeze wages (including mine) for five years, but don't freeze prices or profits. Many prices — food, oil, natural gas — must go up still further to ensure continuity of supply. As for profits, they're much too low. Business needs a lot more money if it's going to expand and make jobs for the future. Put a moratorium on strikes for five years; any union going on strike will be decertified. Make the unions legal entities, responsible under law for all their actions. Require them to be 100 per cent Canadian; no more garbage about them being "international", i.e. serving American interests at the expense of Canadian ones.

Abolish the minimum wage. Abolish unemployment insurance. Abolish welfare except for people physically unable to work. Abolish the baby bonus; let men and women who produce children bear the full responsibility of supporting them. Abolish subsidized housing; governments have no duty to put a roof over anybody's head. Abolish Canada Manpower: Canadians used to find their own jobs; they can do it again. Abolish the five-day week and the eight-hour day; Canadians are perfectly capable of working a 10-hour day and a six-day week.

Close down all university establishments except those which offer specific training for specific professions — medicine, law, engineering, architecture, etc. Confine high school attendance to those students — maybe 10 per cent — who really want it and can benefit from it. Put the rest to work as apprentices in a trade of their choice. Take a close look at the universal franchise. Perhaps the voting age should be raised to 30. Perhaps people should get multiple votes according to how much income tax they pay — thus, one vote if you pay $500, four if you pay $2,000.

Crack down on consumer credit; require people buying consumer goods to pay 30 per cent down, the balance within one year. Cut corporation taxes in half. Cut income taxes in half on people making more than $15,000. Make investment in Canadian industry tax-deductible — not deductible from taxable income, but deductible from the tax itself. Cut the federal, provincial and municipal bureaucracies in half. Sell the post office, Air Canada, Canadian National and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for what they'll fetch.

If you got this far, you're probably livid with rage — unthinkable, unimaginable, intolerable, impractical, shades of Oliver Cromwell and Stalin and Genghis Khan! Ah dear reader, calm down. None of these proposals has the slightest chance of being placed in effect. The presses will keep rolling; wages and prices and interest rates will keep going up; our elected authorities will spoon out more and more welfare, more and more unemployment insurance, more and more "education" that doesn't educate.

In the end — but not just yet — the big crunch will come; as it came to France in 1797 (result, Napoleon), as it came to Germany in 1923 (result, Hitler). And when will that end be? As I read my tarot cards and look into the crystal ball, I think that January, 1977, should do the trick, give or take a month. I hope to be alive then, I hope to be writing, I might even hope that I'll be proven wrong.

Back to the Simple Life: A Unity of Purpose

By PETER BUNYARD

(Bunyard is associate editor of the British magazine The Ecologist who lives and works on a communal farm in Lawellan.)

Five years ago when we launched The Ecologist the world seemed to be doing very nicely. Economies were booming and politicians plus their economic advisors would have laughed to scorn any suggestion that the world would be reeling within a few years, from soaring oil prices, economic stagnation and from rapidly falling agricultural productivity.

In those days any limits to growth were far too distant from the here and now reality of industrial progress and the pursuit of an ever higher standard of living to prevent 'experts' from making all manner of incredible projections about the future.

World energy consumption was going to increase eightfold in 30 years, food production was going to double and it wouldn't be long, they reckoned, before every family in the world had its own car, television set and other common gadgets of the industrial society.

Cornucopia

Was there not plenty of oil in the world, unlimited atomic energy resources and if one dug deep enough into the earth's crust a veritable cornucopia of minerals? And what limits to food production could there be when animals and plants could be nurtured on sythetic nutrients manufactured by ingenious industrialists?

Times have changed. There is hardly a soul who hasn't realised that Britain and other industrial nations now exist primarily by permission of OPEC oil, and surely few of us are still naive enough to believe that North Sea oil will solve all our problems, and take us up the next rung of the ladder of industrial progress.

Yet we cling desperately to the indusrial society we have created for ourselves. For what have we got if it goes? We have had paltry respect for traditional ways of life and have bulldozed away anything that stopped progress — even superb agricultural land has been brutally brushed aside to make way for motorways, airstrips, office blocks and other industrial schemes.

In return we have lost the ability to rely on ourselves for our own survival. We have literally cut the ground from under our own feet.

Nevertheless, here at Lawellan we are trying to achieve as much independence and freedom from the industrial society as we can, even though we are still far from our aim. People from "outside" are now questioning whether our attempt at subsistence living has any validity beyond the field in which it is practised. Could such a life solve the problems brought upon us by the industrial society? Or is it solely an escape for a few privileged eccentrics who happen to like working ridiculously hard for puny financial rewards?

One of the occupational hazards of being part of a small community with pretensions towards subsistence living is that we attract a continual stream of visitors. We have developed a somewhat ambivalent attitude towards such "foreigners", gratified and somewhat flattered that they should have come out of their way to see us, but also a little put out that they should demand attention and disrupt our work. Nevertheless, once over any initial resentment at being disturbed, we generally find we enjoy having visits, and would miss them terribly if they didn't happen.

Apart from the social contact, they are very valuable to us. People come because they have increasing doubts about the industrial society and are curious to see how subsistence living works, and how it feels to be part of a small land-based community. We, on the other hand, benefit because by asking questions and probing our motives, such outsiders help us to clarify our own ideas and aspirations.

"Different activities blend together"

Inevitably too, visitors bring something of their own experience of life and we often find ourselves learning from them, both on the practical and the intellectual side. One man, who dropped by with his family for the day, was excited by our proposal to build a water wheel for our mill and to re-cut the leat bringing water across the farm. A couple of days later he sent apparatus together with detailed instructions for ensuring that we will level correctly and acheive maximum fall on to the wheel when we dig the leat. We've yet to start, but we shall certainly follow his advice when we do.

Paradoxically it is not always those who are most in sympathy with our ideals that teach us most about ourselves. Confrontations between different lifestyles can in themselves be extremely illuminating because they make us see clearly why we have chosen to live as we do. On that score when someone comes to the farm who carries with him the aura of a person whose life is wholly integrated with that of the industrial society, it is hard not to make a value judgment about his life compared to our own. Not that we have in any way discovered the ultimate truth about existence, or are leading the only possible life—far from it—but at least we have made a conscious effort not to be subservient to a society which is rushing headlong into its own grave.

Curious

Recently we had a visit from an American who was curious to see people who had opted out from the industrial society. He himself gave an impression of a terrible aimlessness and dissatisfaction with life, although by modern standards he had a lot going for him. I may be wrong but I had the impression that it was impossible for him to understand what we were really trying to do, because he appeared incapable of knuckling down and doing a bit of physical work for its own sake.

He was the sort of heretic who would never understand the meaning of religious conviction because he could never make the initial effort to transcend himself. Consequently for him our attempt at subsistence living was a kind of intellectual game. He wanted to know whether our "social experiment" as he termed it, had any relevance for the industrial world, or whether we were just an isolated group, out on a limb, doing something of no great significance.

I find it hard to answer such questions without seeming to be a little pretentious, partly because I am unable as yet to live entirely from subsistence farming (hence this article) and partly because we have yet to prove at Lawellan that we farm as well as, if not better than, anyone else, by using special organic techniques with minimal recourse to the products of the industrial society. But the point of living at Lawellan is not to prove the superiority of our lifestyle, though all to the good if we achieve that, but to live life as completely as we can all the time and to be honest with ourselves and those around us. Of course we fall short, and it is not always easy to throw off the hang-ups and obligations we have carried with us from our industrial society existences, but it is amazing how life within a tight community in the country has perceptibly changed us all, making us more relaxed, certainly physically more healthy and I hope gentler.

The industrial society forces people to live separate existences all within the span of a day. Men and women leave home to go to work where they mix with an entirely different set of people, they then return home to their families and very often to the fantasy world of television. Most of the time most people actually avoid living and this kind of deceit is so utterly demoralising that people have to take holidays to get away from it all. It is surely a sad comment that the aim of most people is to maximise their time away from work and to increase the length of their holidays.

Continuum

In subsistence living there is no neat separation of the day into work, home and holiday. The different activities blend together into a continuum of existence, and although we need time to ourselves as well as the occasional break, there seems to be much more unity of purpose in our lives than I believe there can ever be for the majority of people caught up in the enmeshing fabric of the industrial society.

Out life is not, therefore a "sociological experiment", and if we should fail, that failure will not prove the nonviability of subsistence living as practised by us escapees from the industrial society. Probably all it would show is that we as individuals were unable to cope with each other for personal reasons, or that our inexperience of farming and the financial problems involved, finally proved our downfall.

Farming, however done, is an unnatural process and one could argue logically that there is no reason why it should not be linked to industrial techniques if it can be shown that they manifestly improve yields on a long term basis. All the evidence points the other way. The heavy machines now used on the land bring about a definite deterioration in soil structure, compacting it and squeezing out the air, and once soil structure goes so does natural fertility. When used in the winter, tractors scar the land irreparably and at Lawellan we have seen part of our next-door neighbour's field trickle away down our lane because he was constantly crossing and re-crossing the field on a tractor, to gain access to the rest of his farm. An acre lost here and there in this way soon adds up to a sizeable area of land.

In Britain many farmers are now trapped in a very unpleasant vicious circle. For the sake of profits and of cutting labor costs they have sold themselves hook line and sinker to the farming and food industries, which now dictate to them how they must farm. To meet his obligations to his financial backer, be it the bank or a business consortium, he must eliminate the risk of small returns by massive use of chemical fertilisers, pesticides, herbicides and seed dressings. But this type of farming is wholly exploitative because it insidiously diminishes natural soil fertility, and there can be no doubt that Britain's soils are now far less fertile than they were at the turn of the century, despite the incredible volume of chemicals poured upon them.

Comment

The situation is now particularly precarious, because there is no guarantee that industry will survive much longer; and if the fertility of the land has gone how will farmers ever produce the food to feed Britain's population? It is a sad comment on our industrial society that it has the right techniques available to make British farming more productive than at any other time in its history, but has chosen to spurn such techniques primarily because they exclude industry.

HOW PARIS BECAME A NICE PLACE AGAIN

By BERNARD KAPLAN

PARIS—The ice cream vendor on the Boulevard des Capucines waited patiently as the tourist couple debated at length in German about what flavors they wanted. When they finally decided, she smiled a great gold-toothed smile and gave them a benign "merci" as she took their money.

The scene differed in two significant aspects from what it probably would have been in previous summers. The couple then would more likely have been Americans. The Parisian ice cream seller would have given them little time and no courtesy.

It's not that Frenchmen who earn their livelihood from tourism prefer Germans to Amercians. It's just that this summer, all tourists were rare enough to be cherished, even by acerbic Paris merchants.

This year, for the first time since the political troubles in 1968 when tourists stayed away in droves, France expects its tourist industry to be in deficit. That is, the French will spend more travelling abroad than they will earn from visitors coming here.

If the situation is not likely to be that bad in other traditional tourist countries like Spain and Italy, they do not expect brilliant years, either. All have the same problem.

The Americans are not coming. And it was the Americans, spending so much more than other nationalities, who provided the profit in the European tourist boom that ended in 1973.

"It takes 2½ German tourists to spend as much as one American," a spokesman for the French government tourist office said. "We expect about 10 per cent fewer Americans here this year. But that represents a drop of at least 16 per cent, possibly more, in our tourism income. No other national group can make up for this."

These figures do not tell the whole story. They represent a decline from 1974 when American travel to Europe, except Britain, was already sharply down.

This resulted from the recession, the big rise in air fares and a widespread feeling that hotel, restaurant and other prices endountered by tourists here no longer made a European vacation a good buy. The same factors pertain today.

Tourist agents here agree that Americans were further frightened off European travel by the precipitous fall in the dollar's exchange value during the early part of this year. In the last month the dollar has bounced back, but this came too late to affect most American travel plans.

★

One tour agent, Jacques Delaine, expressed doubt that a stronger dollar would have improved business much even if it had risen sooner.

"Economics aren't the whole thing," he said. "Americans are disenchanted with Europe. There's no novelty or prestige in having been to Europe any more.

"Americans are tired of it. They find Europe dirty, overcrowded, noisy and less relaxing than a vacation at home. They also remember that, in the old days when they did come here, they really were not treated well.

"I don't think Americans ever again will visit Europe in the numbers they used to. We have only ourselves to blame."

During the halcyon era, the French, especially, turned disdain for tourists into a fine social art.

But, like the ice cream vendor, as times get tougher, they get friendlier. Whether or not it is strictly for commercial reasons, they seem bent on erasing their reputation. Paris this summer has certainly become a more courteous, pleasant place than habitues remember for a long, long time.

The World Belongs to Worms

RUSSELL BAKER

Several of us went to the country together this summer and grew tomato worms.

We were astounded, for we had not planned anything this ambitious at the start of our botanical work. None of us had much talent in the natural sciences, and if you had told us at the outset that we would discover the secret of growing tomato warms, it would have seemed as absurd as suggesting that we might discover a new planet.

Our project was quite modest. It called only for growing tomatoes. We bought six small plants from a farmer, placed them in the earth after the last frost date, placed a ridiculously large stake beside each plant, watered them occasionally and forgot about them.

After several weeks we noticed that the small plants had developed into a miniature dense green jungle of decidedly sinister appearance. We had not expected those small plants to burgeon so menacingly. They were at least five feet tall, extremely thick and shadowy and somehow seemed to defy human beings to come near them.

From time to time, one heard the death struggles of birds and cats issuing from deep inside the foliage. As the summer sun burnt down on this dark growth, however, delicate yellow blossoms developed small, green, wart-like excrescences which gradually became recognizable as developing tomatoes.

We assumed that the experiment was succeeding.

One sunny morning we awoke to an eerie spectacle. Overnight, the upper portion of what had been a leafy green jungle just the day before had been reduced to a stripped waste of leafless stalks. It was reminiscent of those photographs of old Civil War battlefields in which whole forests have been blasted to splinters by gunfire.

This was, of course, the work of the tomato worm. Close inspection turned up a large crop of tomato worms. Some of us were angry until we saw the significance of what we had accomplished.

We had started with a bare patch of earth and, from it, had created a fine, voracious crop of living organisms. Everyone could grow tomatoes, and did. How many people could grow tomato worms?

We are still uncertain how we did it, but we believe the secret is to start with tomato plants. Last year we had day lillies in that location and did not create a single tomato worm. Before that we had petunias and did not grow any tomato worms that year either.

If my theory is correct — that tomato worms cannot be grown without first growing tomatoes — the consequences for agriculture could be ponderous. Next year we could grow corn there and not have to worry about its being destroyed by tomato worms. By declining to grow tomatoes the American farmer would no longer have to dread the possibility of his crop being devastated by tomato worms.

This raises the question where the tomato worm lives when there are no tomatoes in its neighborhood. Does it lie in the earth for centuries waiting to be summoned to life in the sun the moment some passing gardener puts a tomato root into its bed?

Or do the tomato worms all congregate in some central location, like a union hiring hall until they hear of tomatoes in the next county, and then crawl off to work? My own suspicion is that they spring from tomato seeds and grow right along with the tomatoes. Whatever the case, tomato worms apparently do not exist in active form until you put in tomatoes.

These days when all decent people want to live in brotherhood, or even wormhood, with nature, one feels compelled to find a purposeful role for his tomato worms.

We have tried turning ours loose on the crab grass, but the tomato worms refuse to eat it. They lie there and sulk like spoiled children who refuse to eat their spinach. We tried placing a few on the dog to see if they would attack his fleas, but they seemed offended and rapidly dropped off and headed back toward the ruin of the tomato patch.

We want to live in harmony with nature, of course, and we are worried about what to do to make them happy once the last of the tomatoes has been eaten, which will be any moment now.

Great advances in knowledge almost always create problems like this. The invention of the car led rapidly to the traffic jam and the energy crisis. The discovery how to grow tomato worms leads to bouts of despair about being hostile to nature because you cannot think of ways to keep the worms usefully employed.

Still, man is not stopped in his ceaseless forward progress. Next summer we will plant potatoes where the worms now thrive and, with luck, we may discover how to grow potato bugs.

BCFP Shows Signs Of Some Upswing

By A FORREST
Times Business Editor

British Columbia Forest Products was the only major B.C. publicly-reporting company in the forest industry to show any economic vigor during the first six months of this year.

While other companies reported a downturn, BCFP had increased sales and earnings. Its sales rose to $163.6 million fro $140.6 million and net income was up to $15.9 millin for $14.2 million.

President Ian Barclay said the prosperity of the company was a bit of an illusion, however, because it was due almost entirely to heavy buying of newsprint in anticipation of the strike, which began in mid-July.

For example, sales in the second quarter rose almost 50 per cent to $95.6 million after first quarter sales of only $68 million.

He expects a gloomy second half.

"Because of weak market demand for the company's products, higher consumer inventories, the present strike of the pulp and paper unions and current labor negotiations affecting the entire industry, the forecast for the second half is for greatly reduced earnings," he said.

Meanwhile, the other publicly-reporting companies reported similar prospects for the second half after a rather weak first half. Sales were down slightly across the board and net income, in some cases, was down sharply.

Biggest drop in net income was suffered by MacMillan Bloedel. Profit for the first six months was only $19.8 million after profits of $50.2 million in the same period of 1974.

Net income for Weldwood of Canada slipped to $4.7 million from $8.5 million.

Crown Zellerbach had six month earnings of $8.9 million, down from $11.9 million. Profits of Doman Industries Ltd. slipped to $1.8 million from $1.9 million.

R. G. Rogers, president of Crown Zellerbach, said even the lower earnings were a better result than had been expected and was due to heavy buying in anticipation of the strike.

Rogers said the company expected to do rather poorly in the third quarter because of the labor dispute and continuing weak markets for lumber.

"The outlook is brighter in the longer term," Rogers said. "There is evidence of an upswing in United States housing starts, which should result in a bottoming out of the slump in that important building materials export market."

Results of Canadian Forest Products Ltd. of Vancouver are not publicly reported but industry sources said the company's results likely are similar to that of Weldwood and Crown Zellerbach.

While sales of ECFP rose to $163.6 million from $140.6 million, revenue of all the others was down.

MacMillan Bloedel had sales of $715.9 million, down from $720.9 million; Crown Zellerbach sales were $158.8 million, down from $162.2 mil-

COLONEL DROPS SIT-DOWN SUIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Col. Harland Sanders of fried chicken fame has announced he is withdrawing a lawsuit against Heublein Inc., the successor firm to Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp.

Sanders and his wife had filed suit in 1964 seeking $122 million in damages, claiming that Heublein interfered in the Sanders' efforts to franchise sitdown restaurants modelled after one they formerly operated in Shelbyville, Ky.

Kentucky Fried Chicken, in turn, has agreed to drop a suit filed in 1974 against a Sanders'-owned firm named Claudia Sanders, The Colonel's Lady, Inc.

Kentucky Fried Chicken contended the use of the name "colonel" violated trademarks it held because of its earlier deal with Sanders.

A No-Waste Scheme For New Sea Gas

LONDON (CP) — Britain is determined that natural gas found in oilfields now being worked in the North Sea will not be wasted. And a British engineering firm has come up with a proposal that some of the gas be turned into a valuable industrial chemical at the wellhead.

Normally the associated gas — as it is called — is burned off at the wellhead in a process known as flaring. Gas now is being produced in quantities ranging from 750,000 to 25 million cubic feet a day.

But though relatively optimistic estimates have been made of the amount of gas that may eventually be discovered, only the giant Brent field, northeast of the Shetlands, has so far been shown to have enough gas to justify a separate pipeline.

The British government has made it clear that it will permit the gas to be disposed of by burning only as a last resort, and a government-commissioned study is currently investigating the possibility of laying a network of small-diameter pipelines to gather the gas from a number of fields to link up to a single gas main for pumping ashore.

Balena Structure of Cambridge claims that conversion to methanol — industrial methyl alcohol — could be an economic alternative. They propose that a new generation of steel offshore platforms incorporating storage tanks, such as the current concrete drilling platforms have, could provide the basis for a plant capable of producing 2,000 tons of methanol a day. This could simply be offloaded into tankers and shipped ashore.

Methanol has a wide range of uses in the chemical industry.

Egypt Earns $27 Million Off Suez

PORT SAID (AP) — Egypt has earned $27 million in transit tolls from the Suez canal since it was reopened for international navigation three months ago, an official announcement said Saturday.

It said 1,866 ships had used the canal since June 5, an average of 20 to 28 ships a day.

An average of 60 ships a day moved through the canal before it was closed in the 1967 Arab-Israeli conflict.

Bowlers Won't Go

The Canadian Lawn Bowling Association has decided to follow the policy of the federal government on apartheid and will not send a team to the 1976 World Bowls.

South Africa, banned from several international sports because of its apartheid policy, will host the event in Johannesburg in February.

The Canadian government has sent letters to all athletic associations in the country requesting them not to enter competitions involving South African teams.

The next World Bowls is 1980 but a site has yet to be selected.

Cowichan Drops Hornets

DUNCAN — Cowichan Timbermen exploded just before half-time and went on to defeat Saanich Chew Excavating Hornets 21-10 Sunday in the opening gome of the Vancouver Island Canadian Football League at McAdam Park.

Led by quarterback Ross McCauley and halfback Brian Bellis, who each scored a touchdown and kicked a convert, Cowichan dominated the second half of the mainly defensive game.

Halfback Ron Bronson, who along with Robert Boyd, McCauley and Bellis managed to lead the Timbermen defensively, also scored a major.

Defensive tackle Greg Mohr scored the lone Hornet TD, Ed Murray booted a field goal and Dave Murdoch kicked a single.

Both squads scored safeties. Mohr, linebacker Ken Mitchell, halfback Rob Fee and end Murray Hicke led the Hornet defence.

Farmer Construction and Saanich Vampires return to league action tonight at 7:30 at Royal Athletic Park.

Wilfong Paces Bolts

BOSTON (AP) — Bram Wilfong scored five goals to lead Boston Bolts to a 16-14 victory over Montreal Quebecois before 5,328 spectators in national lacrosse league action Saturday.

Boston now leads the best-of-seven semi-final series 2-1.

Boston's top scorers were Larry Bell and Duffy McCarthy with three goals apiece. Montreal's top scorer was John Davis with three goals. Dave Asker, Ken Winzoski and Bill Squire got two goals each.

The Bolts had 61 shots on Quebecois goaltenders Dave Evans and Ernie Mitchell.

GRID T-BIRDS END DROUGHT

VANCOUVER — University of British Columbia Thunderbirds won their first Western Intercollegiate Football League game in three seasons Saturday with a 38-7 triumph over University of Manitoba Bisons.

Defending-champion University of Saskatchewan Huskies downed Univeristy of Alberta Golden Bears 23-19 in Edmonton in another contest.

City Goalie Perfect

BURNABY (CP) — British Columbia became the Western Canada juvenile soccer champion Sunday, winning its final against Alberta 5-0 and finishing its three-game portion of the round-robin event with a 19-0 shutout against its competitors.

B.C. will meet the Eastern Canada winner Sept. 27.

Gord Reding of Victoria, who is only 15 years old, maintained his shutout record in B.C.'s goal Sunday as Richard Beerens of Burnaby and Tony Munoz of Delta, each with two goals, and Kelly McKnight of Burnaby did the scoring.

Alberta finished the competition with a win, a loss and a tie.

Manitoba also had a win, a loss and a tie after defeating Saskatchewan 6-3 Sunday.

Bridgman Leaves For Philadelphia

Victoria Cougars began workouts today in Juan de Fuca Arena while Mel Bridgman, one of the Western Canada Hockey League club's star graduates, is settling down in Philadelphia.

Bridgman, who was selected first by Philadelphia Flyers in the National Hockey League amateur draft earlier this year, left Sunday for some warm-up skating prior to the opening of training camp Sept. 15 at the Spectrum.

Approximately 70 players will attend the Cougar camp and manager-coach Pat Ginnell expects to have that figure cut to about 50 before their first pre-season exhibition games against the Chiefs in Kamloops Sept. 12 and 13.

CATFISH HUNTER
. . . 20 wins again

Hunter Humble in Victory Circle

By The Associated Press

Jim (Catfish) Hunter, chivalrous and humble, said he owes it all to his supporting cast. It's hard to believe that Hunter, either the fisherman or the pitcher, has ever cast a longer line or told a taller tale.

Hunter, the most consistent pitcher in baseball in the 1970s, Sunday joined a couple of immortals from yesteryear by winning his 20th game for the fifth consecutive year. Only Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove had five in a row in the American League before.

"It feels great, but I owe it to the teams behind me," said Hunter, who turned in the A's green and gold for the Yankee pinstripes and got a lot of green and gold for doing it. "To Oakland for the first four seasons, and to the Yankees this year. A pitcher is only as good as his team."

Indeed, Hunter had four 20-game seasons with the A's, world champions the past three years, but then he did it again this year with the Yankees, who are merely a .500 ball club.

The Yankees beat Baltimore Orioles 2-0 Sunday behind Hunter's six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the AL Sunday, Kansas City Royals beat California Angels 8-7 in 11 innings, Oakland beat Texas Rangers 4-1 and 7-3, Cleveland Indians took a pair from Detroit Tigers, 7-2 and 9-0, Boston Red Sox beat Milwaukee Brewers 6-3, then lost 7-3, and Minnesota Twins defeated Chicago White Sox 9-1.

On Saturday, Boston embarassed Milwaukee with a 20-6 win while Cleveland beat Detroit 4-2, Baltimore defeated New York 7-6, Oakland beat Texas 2-1, Chicago defeated Minnesota 5-2 and Kansas City beat Colifornia 4-3 and 6-3.

In the National League Sunday, Cincinnati Reds clinched the Western Division pennant by defeating San Francisco Giants 8-4 while second-place Los Angeles Dodgers lost 5-4 to Atlanta Braves; Pittsburgh Pirates remained 5½ games ahead in the Eastern Division by shutting out Montreal Expos 6-0; St. Louis Cardinals beat New York Mets 12-4; Chicago Cubs downed Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 and Houston Astros shaded San Diego Padres 3-2.

Saturday, the Reds edged the Giants 3-2, Atlanta beat the Dodgers 3-2, St. Louis trimmed the Mets 6-3, Chicago nipped Philadelphia 7-6, Pittsburgh whipped Montreal 12-5 and San Diego edged Houston 2-1.

Hunter, 20-13, the 1974 Cy Young Award winner, struck out five Orioles and didn't allow a runner past second base in outduelling Jim Palmer, another charter member of the 20-victory club. Palmer, the 1973 Cy Young Award winner and a 20-game winner in five of the last six years, is now 20-10.

It was the seventh shutout for Hunter, a career high. He has won four of his last five decisions, completed nine consecutive games and has 27 complete games over-all, the most for the Yankees since Carl Mays had 30 in 1921.

In the last five seasons, Hunter has won 108 games and lost 48.

"We want Pittsburgh," the Reds' Johnny Bench shouted when word of the title clinching came through with news of Dodgers' loss and the chant spread throughout the clubhouse as quickly as the champagne-and-beer shower. "We're number one! Beat the East!"

Cincinnati pitcher Don Gullett, 13-3, won his ninth consecutive game in a string that included nine weeks of inaction due to a broken thumb. "Everyone thought we would fall back when Don got hurt but we opened up light on the league," said Rose. "We need him, but we are going to win."

Marty Perez' two-out tie-breaking single in the ninth inning gave the Braves their victory and officially made Los Angeles an also-ran.

Vicettes Take Softball Crown

CJVI Vicettes defeated Stockers 9-6 Sunday at Hyacinth Park to capture the Victoria Senior Women's Softball League championship.

The victory gave the Vicettes the best-of-three playoff final two games to none. They won the first game 6-2 two weeks ago.

Debbie Derkson went the distance and scattered seven hits for the win. Terry Standland, relieved by Sharon Ferrill in the sixth inning, was the losing pitcher.

Jan Nowell sparked CJVI at bat with four hits in four trips to the plate and two runs batted-in. Sandy Ferguson also drove in two runs for the winners.

FORMER CHAMPION becomes champ again as Elvira Kapus (above), winner of provincial titles in her native Hungary, hits forehand shot on way to 6-2, 7-5 victory over Susi Miles in Times tourney's women's singles final. The weatherman co-operated by providing a warm, sunny day for the finals at Henderson Park. About 100 spectators showed up.

BRITISH PROS Mark Cox (left) and Richard Lewis congratulate Victoria's Ernie Cockayne and Marty Taylor on fine effort. Visitors won exhibition doubles 7-5.

TIMES TENNIS WINDUP

New Champions and Old

After a summer of torrid battles involving some 200 players, the second annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament wound up in glorious sunshine Saturday at Henderson Park where:

—Two defending champions retained titles, and two newcomers gave fine performances on their way to victory for the first time;

—Mark Cox and fellow British pro Richard Lewis thrilled about 100 fans with an exhibition of fine tennis in a singles match and two sets of doubles;

—Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen showed just what can happen if you do "go home and practise."

Story: Max Low; Photos: Max Low And John McKay

Gordon Liebescher, an athletic 31-year-old B.C. Hydro bus driver, proved beyond doubt that he is the No. 1 male public parks player in Greater Victoria by outplaying Colonist reporter Jon Ferry 7-5, 6-4 in the men's final for his second win in two years.

And Greg Booth again took the under-18 boys' title when he returned back a strong comecabk bid by Cameron Kring to win 6-3, 6-4.

New comer Elvira Kapus, who only arrived in Victoria few months ago from Hungary, had trouble with her serve at times but played some beautiful fast-pace ground strokes to beat American-born Susi Miles 6-2, 7-5 in the women's final.

Cindy Majorca, who confessed she "enjoyed every minute" of her first venture into tournament tennis, defeated Penny Murray 6-1, 6-3 in the under-18 girls' final.

Cox used some hard, well-placed ground strokes and deft drop shots to defeat Lewis 6-3 in their singles encounter and then sat back to watch the men's and women's public parks finals.

Ferry led 3-1 in the first set but Liebescher came back strongly with a clever mixture of hard serves, crisp volleys and intelligent lobs to out-fox his younger opponent.

Cox said he felt Liebescher played "a good tactical match" and was "a very solid player who did everything well."

"He has a very good overhead, exceptionally good, and this makes him hard to beat," pointed out Cox.

The British star felt that Ferry was "a good athlete, but didn't make the best advantage of the talent he had."

"All four men's and women's finalists were fierce competitors, who put everything into it," said Cox. "And the tennis was good, with some incredible rallies."

Following the finals of the only tournament of its kind on Vancouver Island (designed specially for public parks and not club players), Times publisher Stuart Underhill presented trophies to the winners and runners-up in all events.

Cox, who has just arrived back in B.C. from the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, where he was eliminated by fiery Romanian Ilie Nastase, then teamed with Lewis to edge Marty Taylor and Ernie Cockayne of Victoria 7-5.

And, while master of ceremonies Greg Miller, president of the Vancouver Island Lawn Tennis Association, kidded the Englishmen about their line calls, they split up for a second set of exhibition doubles. This time, Lewis, a 20-year-old, six foot three-inch pro from just north of London who is currently ranked sixth in Britain, partnered Cockayne for a 7-5 win over Cox and Taylor.

Pollen gained revenge for a 6-2 defeat a year ago by out-lobbing Oak Bay Mayor Brian Smith for a 6-4 victory in the Return Battle of the Mayors. After losing last year, Pollen told the crowd he would "go home and practise."

Dressed in a blue shirt and socks with matching trim, and a battered, paint-splattered hat, Pollen fell behind 4-2 at one stage but stormed back to win four games in a row and the set.

After one long rally, applause echoed round the court as Pollen neatly lobbed the ball inches out of the reach of Smith's racquet.

"This is the day of the underdog," grinned the Victoria mayor.

Sunday morning, Cox took time out from a hectic schedule to give a special coaching clinic, aided by Lewis and Miller, for those players who got to the semi-finals and beyond in all four events.

Cox also gives exhibitions in New York Tuesday and in Portland Thursday. Next Friday, Saturday and Sunday he's playing in Charlotte, N.C.

Then for Cox, who now lives in White Rock and is pro for the Richmond-based Delta Hotels, there will be a couple of weeks holiday before he coaches the Canadian Davis Cup squad at the Airport Inn for the match with Colombia in October.

FOREHAND DRIVES and crisp volleys of lefthander Gordon Liebscher proved too much for Jon Ferry in men's final. Liebscher won 7-5, 6-4.

BIG SERVE of Cindy Majorca helped carry her to 6-1, 6-3 win over Penny Murray in under-18 girls' final.

DOUG PEDEN - EDITOR

Orantes Like Matador In Final

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The usually staid centre court at the West Side Tennis Club took on the atmosphere of a bull ring.

Manuel Orantes, the 26-year-old left-hander from Barcelona, was the master, making defending champion Jimmy Connors see red in the ring.

"Vamos, maestro," hundreds of Spanish-speaking fans shouted. "Manuela, Manuela, Manuela.

"Orantes, Orantes, Orantes. Ole, ole, ole."

Orantes taunted Connors by playing to his two-fisted backhand, kept him at bay on the baseline, then brought him in with drop shots and set him up for the kill.

The 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory in the United States open championships Sunday ended Connors' chances of retaining the title and reigning with his former fiancee, Chris Evert, who won the women's crown on Saturday.

Orantes' victory came less than 18 hours after his "miracle match" with Guillermo Vilas of Argentina. In that under-the-lights semi-final, the third-seeded Orantes came from far behind and beat the second-seeded Vilas 4-6, 1-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

During the match against Connors, which lasted less than two hours, chants kept coming from high up in the stands, which were packed with a record crowd of 15,669. They came from a group of Mexicans who had come to cheer Raul Ramirez, the No. 11 seed who went out in the round of 16. They stayed to back Orantes.

The 23-year-old Connors advanced to the final Saturday afternoon with a 7-5, 7-5, 7-5 triumph over Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the No. 5 seed, breaking him in the 12th game of each set.

He then sat on the sidelines and cheered Miss Evert to her 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Evonne Goolagong of Australia.

Miss Evert's victory was worth $25,000. She received another $900 as a semi-finalist in the women's doubles. Not counting accessories and endorsements, she has banked a record $280,927 so far this year.

Miss Goolagong, now a three-time runner-up at Forest Hills, earned $12,000, increasing her 1975 earnings to $109,109.

Orantes, No. 2 on the Grand Prix of Tennis championship points list, earned $25,000 for points list, earned $25,000 for year's earnings to $131,406, his victory, increasing his while Connors' $12,000 as runner-up pushed his total earnings, including challenge matches, to $587,809.

Windsor Ruins Esquimalt Bid

EDMONTON — Esquimalt's power play fell apart Sunday and as a result it cost the team the Canadian national junior "B" lacrosse championship.

Esquimalt, which beat Alberta 9-8 Friday for the Western Canada crown, gave up 10 shorthanded goals to Windsor Warlocks and lost 21-15 in the national final.

Warlocks led 6-3 after the first period and 15-9 after the second.

"Those bench-play goals just killed them," said winning coach Don Allen after the game. "We're afraid of them at first — they're bigger than us — but we were quicker and in better shape and always beat them to the ball."

Rick LaPointe, former Victoria Cougar defenceman signed by Detroit Red Wings of the Natonal Hockey League, led Esquimalt with three goals. Scott Browning added two goals and three assists while Randy Bryant, Steve Buckley and Ross McKinstry also scored twice each.

Other Esquimalt marksmen were Doug Angrove, Lance Hobbs, Kevin Kennedy and John Entzminger, who also had four assists.

Ken Rehman topped the Warlocks with seven goals while Frank Buttor scored three times.

Jim Fisher blocked 30 shots in goal for Esquimalt while Bob Laforet and Pat Mallin combined for 26 saves for the winners.

MAC PAIR PACES BURNABY

Times News Services

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. — Two players from Victoria McDonalds, Bob Cool and Kevin Alexander, paced Burnaby Cablevision to a 10-8 victory over Peterborough Gray-Munros Sunday night in the first game of the Minto Cup series for the Canadian Junior "A" lacrosse championship.

The win ended Peterborough's four-year winning streak at home.

Cool scored three goals while Alexander added two and had two assists. Both were picked up by Burnaby after its Western Canada final victory over Victoria. Other Burnaby goals went to Dan Perrault, Matt Aitken, Mike Holden, Ray Mathinson and John Krgovich.

Bob Wasson led the losers with three goals while singles went to Ted Floyd, Peter Byers, Paul Evans, Randy Bryan and John Martin.

Restrictions Forced Asylum Move, Says Czech Star

Times News Service

Martina Navratilova says she hopes some day to be the No. 1 woman tennis player in the world, but she can't do it under the restrictive measures of her native Czechoslovakia.

That is the reason, she insists, that she has asked for political asylum in the United States.

"Politics has nothing to do with it, money has nothing to do with it," the 18-year-old budding star from Bernice, near Prague, told a news conference Sunday at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y. "It is my decision alone."

"I am doing it to enhance my tennis career."

Miss Navratilova announced at the U.S. Open championships that she had been considering for months a decision to seek U.S. citizenship but had made the move only last Friday.

The immigration department announced in Washington, D.C., that she had been granted temporary residency in this country pending action on the citizenship application.

Martina was poised and outspoken as she related a story of restraint and harassment by sports federation authorities back home.

"They thought I was becoming too Americanized," she said. "They told me they wanted me to finish school. They said I must make tennis second in my life."

"I had to ask if I could play in this tournament or that tournament. They kept after me to come home. It was all very frustrating."

A sturdy left-hander who is rated among the four best women players in the world, Martina has won more than $140,000 this year. She said Czechoslovakia has extracted 20 per cent of her winnings as taxes, but that she planned to keep all the money she earned for reaching the semi-finals in the U.S. Open.

Rhythm Helps Roy Waltz to Victory

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

You don't learn to drive a stock car at a dance studio, but rhythm plays a big part in the sport. Just ask Roy Haslam of Victoria, winner of Saturday night's Canada 200 open race.

Haslam was out of sight, pure and simple, lapping the entire field twice in the 200-lap feature viewed by the largest crowd of the season at Western Speedway, 5,220.

Among his victims was Bobby Allison, one of three stock car racing millionaires, who finished eighth in Dick Midgley's 1974 Grand National model Chevelle.

Every driver in the race, in which 24 started and 14 finished, had to make a mandatory pit stop. All but one — Victoria's Ross Surgenor — did so.

Surgenor, figuring there were more laps remaining than was the case, tried desperately to pit just as Haslam got the checkered flag, but he was too late.

That meant an automatic disqualification and it cost Surgenor third place and $900.

There was nothing wrong with Haslam's timing, however. His 1965 Chevelle, bought last December from Gary Kershaw, gave him little trouble. His oply problem was some late-race backfiring caused by a loose header gasket, but it didn't slow him down.

The original plan was to pit about lap 110, but Haslam waited until lap 144 and that caused some concern among his pit crew, headed by Gary Papin.

Haslam, however, wasn't worried because, as he explained in victory square, he had rhythm going for him.

"They were giving me the word to slow down (on a radio hookup between the Garden City Auto Special and the pit," Haslam said. "But if you do that, you can break your concentration and rhythm, especially going into the turns."

So Haslam waited until he was 1¼ laps ahead of second-place Kershaw, who didn't pit until lap 175. The winner took 21 seconds for a quick pit check and returned to the track only one-quarter lap behind Gary's 1969 Chevelle.

It took Haslam 11 laps to pass Kershaw a second time.

The victory was worth $1,500 and Haslam pocketed another $700 for finishing first in the Carling open series driver standings. He had already clinched the points title before Saturday's series wind-up.

Larry Pollard of Victoria, winner of the previous two opens at Western, was third followed by Don Harper of Ashland, Ore., Cam Barnes of Surrey, Victoria's Rick O'Dell, Cord Hemrich of Vancouver and Allison.

Allison, who arrived in Victoria Saturday morning from his home town of Huevtown, Ala., spent most of the day working on the Midgley car, adjusting the suspension and installing a new carburator. But in the end, there wasn't much he could do to offset the weight he was giving up to his rivals. The car was about 400 pounds heavier than the others because it is used mostly in Grand National races.

"The carburetor wasn't working just right," explained Allison, who had won the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., in his Roger Penske Matador five days earlier. "The main problems were coming out of the turns. The entire car was somewhat outclassed, but if we had been in against heavier Grand National cars, I think this car would have been competitive."

Driving a different car Sunday at Portland Speedway, Allison was more competitive but ran into tough luck. He led for 140 laps — until lap 142 — of a 150-lap Western Grand National race but had to drop out with a blown engine. He ended up eighth in the final placings. Bill Schmidt of Redding, Calif., won with Chuck Bown of Portland second and Chuck Wahl of Santa Monica, Calif., third.

There was only one delay in Victoria Saturday, and that came on lap 12 when Vancouver's Rolly Walker blew an engine and spewed oil through the grandstand straightaway and turn one. Victoria's Neil Montgomery skidded in his wake and the two collided when Walker spun. That finished both drivers.

Another early victim was Don Dowdey of Yakima, a pre-race favorite. He blew a head gasket on lap 85 and never got back.

"I was blowing water and as a result, the temperature shot up. We couldn't have repaired it without tearing the engine apart," he said.

★ ★ ★

CLOSING LAPS — Haslam plans to drive an open race in Langley, Sept. 27, and may take his car to Las Vegas for an early-October race which pays $5,000 to the winner . . . Kershaw had fast time in the trials, 17.29 seconds. Allison, who turned a Saturday afternoon practicee lap in 17.35, timed in at 17.65, 10th fastest. The track record of 17.11 was set earlier this year by Harper, who could manage only 18.17 Saturday after crashing his 1975 Camaro in a race last Monday . . . Haslam turned several laps under 18 seconds during the race. His unofficial time on lap 60, for example, was 17.6 compared to a disappointing 19.5 for Allison . . . O'Dell and Ron Eaton of Tacoma collided at the start of the "A" trophy dash but the only damage was a bent left front fender to Eaton's car, which was quickly straightened . . . Hot weather Friday and Saturday left the track soft and made handling difficult early Saturday night. Conditions improved as the temperature dropped through the evening . . . During Saturday afternoon practice laps, Allison took the wheel of Roy Smith's super-modified and clocked a lap in 16.10 seconds.

SMITH WINS IN U.S.

MONROE, Wash. — Roy Smith of Victoria moved closer to his first Washington Racing Association super-modified points championship here Sunday by winning the 50-lap feature for open-wheeled cars at Evergreen Speedway.

Smith now has 1,338 points to 1,246 for second-place John Tharp of Alderwood Manor, Wash. Tharp was fourth Sunday.

Smith, driving the Daffodil Special, just nosed out Jerry McLees of Seattle for the victory. Third place went to Bob Cochrane of Edmunds, Wash.

Last race in the series is Friday night at the dirt track at nearby Sky Valley Speedway.

Swiss Leads All the Way

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland, in a Ferrari 312-T, led from start to finish Sunday in the Grand Prix of Italy Formula I auto race, next-to-last event in the world championship.

Niki Lauda of Austria, Regazzoni's team-mate, clinched the world drivers' title by finishing third behind Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil.

The 36-year-old Swiss driver scored his first Grand Prix victory this season and the third of his career, turning the 52-lap, 187-mile race in a record time of one hour, 22 minutes 42.6 seconds — an average speed of 136 miles an hour.

Fittipaldi, in a McLaren, managed to pass Lauda in the closing laps, turning in record lap times. He finished 16.6 seconds behind Regazzoni. Lauda was third, 23.2 seconds behind.

Lauda, 26, thus gained his first world title, the seventh for Ferrari, by piling up an unbeatable lead of 55½ points in the world standings.

Carlos Reutemann of Argentina, the only driver who had a chance to pass Lauda by winning here and in the last championship race, at Watkins Glen, N.Y., finished fourth.

Reutemann, in a Brabham, never was in contention for the lead. He finished 55.1 seconds behind Regazzoni.

He also lost second place in the world standings to Fittipaldi, who now has 39 points to Reutemann's 37.

Even Ottawa Coach Is Amazed By Eight-Touchdown Outburst

By The Canadian Press

The Ottawa Rough Riders' coach was amazed while a former Ottawa quarterback was dismayed following a pair of Eastern Football Conference games Sunday.

"It was some basketball game," said Ottawa coach George Brancato, shaking his head in amazement at the 56-31 score by which his Riders beat Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Montreal Alouettes kept pace with the Riders atop the EFC standing by beating Toronto Argonauts 23-20 and Argo coach Russ Jackson, the former Ottawa quarterback star, said: "We kicked it around like we were back in kindergarten."

At Ottawa, a crowd of 27,259 was treated to a wide-open offensive display, including four touchdowns each by Ottawa fullback Art Green and Hamilton split end Terry Evanshen.

Another star was Ottawa starting quarterback Tom Clements who led the club to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and a 35-10 advantage by half time.

Brancato said Clements' play selection was perfect and he again displayed his outstanding ability to mix his receivers and runners.

Other Ottawa touchdowns came from halfback Jim Foley, tight end Tony Gabriel, quarterback Condredge Holloway and wide receiver Moody Jackson. Gerry Organ kicked converts on all eight touchdowns.

Evanshen's touchdowns, all on passes from Jim McMillan, increased his Canadian Football League career record to 69 touchdown receptions.

At Toronto, coach Jackson's dismay stemmed mainly from the Argos' second-quarter lapse when the Alouettes rallied from a 9-0 first-quarter deficit.

Kicker Zenon Andrusyshyn's three field goals had given the Argos their early lead but Montreal came back with a Jimmy Jones touchdown pass to Larry Smith and then Johnny Rodgers ran back an Andrusyshyn punt 60 yards for another touchdown.

Don Sweet added two converts and two field goals for a 20-9 Als lead at half time. An Andrusyshyn field goal, a touchdown by Ed Shuttleworth and a two-point convert by Peter Muller erased the Als lead but Sweet's 47-yard field goal late in the final quarter produced the victory.

Jones went all the way at quarterback for the Als, completing 15 of 28 passes for 196 yards. Mike Rae handled the quarterback chores for the Argos, completing 13 of 25 passes for 108 yards.

Edmonton Eskimos moved into first place in the Western Conference Saturday by shooting down Saskatchewan Roughriders 28-24 in a hotly-contested aerial battle.

Quarterback Tom Wilkinson masterminded the Edmonton offence with 27 completions in 40 attempts for three touchdowns.

Roy Bell, who gained only 55 yards on 16 carries, caught all three scoring passes, including two from 19 and 20 yards out in the fourth quarter as the Eskimos came back from an 11-point deficit.

Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster threw 17 completions in 25 attempts before suffering his only interception at the hands of Dale Potter with 28 seconds left in the game.

"That's the best rush I've seen this year," Wilkinson said. "Our guys really came together in the last eight or nine minutes and reached down and did a tremendous job . . ."

Dave Cutler completed Edmonton's scoring with three converts, two field goals and a single.

"We didn't play tough enough when we had to," said Saskatchewan coach John Payne.

Lancaster put it this way: "If you can't stop them, you can't beat them."

A record Clark Stadium crowd of 25,201 watched the Eskimos win their sixth game in seven starts.

Veteran Saskatchewan fullback George Reed was the top ground gainer of the game, collecting 128 yards in 22 carries. He also scored two Roughrider touchdowns on runs of two and seven yards.

DOLPHINS' MISCUES BRING LOSS NO. 5

By D'ARCY KAVANAGH
Times Staff

Victoria Dolphins' fortunes in the Big Four Football Conference took another dive Sunday night at Royal Athletic Park.

Dolphins lost their fifth game in as maany outings this season, dropping a 21-0 decision to North Shore Cougars in, a dull, penalty-ridden affair before about 200 fans.

"The officiating controlled the game from the start," said North Shore coach Torchy Pechet, "and that's why neither team moved the ball much."

The Cougars certainly lacked offensive punch. Pechet employed two quarterbacks, Tom Christian and Greg Smith, but they only managed 10 first downs.

However, North Shore didn't need much to beat Victoria as the Dolphins proved to be their own worst enemies.

On the opening kickoff, the Dolphins' coverage broke down and North Shore's Wayne Johnson rambled 100 yards for a touchdown.

Their next error came in the third quarter with the Cougars ahead 7-0. Victoria halfback Dave Chatwin fumbled the ball in his own end zone and Cougars' Ty Walker pounced on it for another major.

The play particularly irked Victoria coach Ken Werrun as it immediately followed a successful Victoria goal-line stand.

Dolphins' fate was sealed midway through the fourth quarter when Jim Pettit scored North Shore's third touchdown on a one-yard plunge following a blocked punt by the Cougars.

The other North Shore points came on three converts by Kelvan Goch.

"It was pretty tough for the Dolphins tonight with all those injuries," said Pechet. "And they really missed that fullback, Christie Sinclare."

Sinclare is out for the season with torn knee ligaments. Halfback Kerry Lacroix is also through for the year with the same problem while lineman Bob Vandenought is on crutches with a knee injury.

However, Dolphins' did have first-string quarterback Spence Parker back in action. He dressed for the club's last game but didn't play because of leg and wrist injuries.

For Parker, the game was a poor return. He directed the Dolphins to only nine first downs — just one in the second half — and completed five of 19 pass attempts for a total of 16 yards. He had one interception.

Victoria's next game is Sunday in Vancouver against the Blue Bombers.

ORR STAYING PUT

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins has apparently decided to spurn a $4-million contract from the World Hockey Association and stay in the National Hockey League, the president of the WHA's Minnesota Fighting Saints said Sunday night.

"I would say it's 99 per cent sure he'll stay in Boston," said Saints president Wayne Belisle. "I'm disappointed mostly because I think we were so close."

Belisle said Orr's lawyer, Alan Eagleson, told him that Boston made an offer covering 10 years.

"However, that agreement is conditioned upon the sale of the Bruin franchise going through," said Belisle. "If they (the Bruins) hadn't been sold I think he'd be signing with the Fighting Saints tomorrow."

Belisle said Minnesota offered Orr $4 million over a five-year period. It was the first disclosure of the exact amount the WHA had offered Orr. There had been reports that Orr was considering a $6.5-million pact from the WHA.

The Bruins recently were sold by Storer Broadcasting Corp. to Sportsystems Corp., of Buffalo, N.Y., for a reported $10 million.

Green Charges To Win

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Charging Hubert Green fired a six-under-par 64 Sunday, overtook John Schroeder in the stretch, and won the $100,000 Southern Open golf tournament by three strokes.

Green had the gallery cheering every shot as he swept past Schroeder on the 14th hole with his fourth birdie in five holes for a course-record 264 for 72 holes. The 16-under-par score also gave him the $20,000 first prize.

Schroeder, who held a one-shot margin over Green entering the final round over the 6,791-yard, par-72 Green Island Country Club course, fired a 68 for 267. His score equalled the old course record set by Johnny Miller in 1971.

Terry Dill was third at 272 after shooting a 68.

Nicklaus Frustrated

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — British Open champion Tom Watson held off frustrated Jack Nicklaus with a one-over-par 71 for a two-stroke victory Sunday in the last World Series of Golf to be played under its exclusive, four-man format.

The red-haired, freckle-faced Watson, rapidly moving into the front rank of the game's premier players, won the $50,000 first prize with a two-round total of 140, matching par on the demanding, 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course.

Nicklaus, who won the Masters then acquired the Professional Golfers' Association title on this course just a month ago, never got closer than two strokes in the mild, sunny weather and had to settle for second with a 70 and a 142 total. Nicklaus, a four-time winner of this event that brings together only the holders of the world's major titles, now has been runner-up six times.

Lou Graham, winner of the United States Open, and Tom Weiskopf, the Canadian Open champion, didn't get in the title chase. Weiskopf had a second-round 70 for a 145 and Graham shot 71-147.

Nicklaus, who simply couldn't make anything happen until the last two holes when it was too late, picked up $15,000 for second, pushing his career earnings at this course to $394,930. Weiskopf won $7,500 for third place and the last-place Graham won $5,000.

Watson, now a three-time winner this season, started the day's play with a three-stroke advantage and held it most of the way. He maintained the margin with gritty saves of par from bunkers on the 14th and 15th holes and all but wrapped it up when Nicklaus got in trouble on the 16th, the 625-yard par-five that wears the nick-name "the Monster".

Nicklaus put his third shot just over the green in deep rough while Watson was safely on in three.

Jack came out weakly and poorly, some 20-22 feet short of the pin.

Alcos Sew Up Cricket Title

Alcos clinched their first Victoria and District Cricket Association title and the Colonist Cup with a narrow Saturday victory over Nanaimo and Cowichan suddenly made it a three-way race for second place with a one-sided win over Castaways on Sunday.

Playing in the Hub City, Alcos won by one run. The visiting club chalked up 116 runs for the loss of nine wickets after dismissing Nanaimo for 115, all out.

The win moved Alcos 14 points ahead of Albion and Castaways, who tied for second spot.

Cowichan moved into the race and to within four points of the runners-up by handing Castaways a massive 118-run setback at Shawnigan lake.

With the exception of Oak Bay, all clubs have one match remaining in the regular season.

In the only other weekend tussle, Incogs ended the season for Oak Bay by taking a seven-wicket victory Saturday at Windsor Park.

Trevor Bagot led Alco batsmen with 27 runs and Steve Hanson added 24. Nanaimo bowler Ian Smith took seven wickets for the loss of 62 runs and Ray Telford toppled two for 45.

Telford topped Nanaimo with 32 and Rick Saxty contributed 27. Hanson tumbled five for 29.

Cowichan reached 176 for eight behind the batting of Peter Clarke (46) and Sid Keeping (38). Ashley Hall (four for 68) and Alan Rees (two for 32) led Castaway bowlers.

Castaways only managed to reach 58, all out, with Rees chipping in 30 against some top-notch Cowichan bowling.

Tim Lord (two for 15) led off bowling for up-Island club and was followed by Peter Wilson (four for seven) and Tim Brierley (four for 16).

Batting first, Incogs rang up 195 for three with Eric Kjekstad scoring 58 and Fred Gladders adding 57. Oak Bay was retired for 66. Brian Tetlow scored 20 runs for Oak Bay while Rob Wilson led Incog bowlers with a six for 30 performance.

BUSTINO RETIRED

LONDON (Reuter) — Bustino, a brilliant four-year-old thoroughbred, has been retired from racing on veterinary advice. He was found to have a tear in a tendon.

Mann's Methodical

DALLAS (AP) — Veteran Carol Mann fired a methodical one-under par 71 and was never seriously challenged Sunday as she won the $46,000 Dallas Women's Open golf tournament by five strokes.

In winning her second Dallas championship and her fourth Ladies' PGA Tournament of the season, Miss Mann was in front from the first round and finished with a 54-hole total of 208, eight under par on the 6,336-yard Brookhoven Country Club Championship Course.

Jocelyn Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., finished out of the money with a three-round total of 230, including a 77 Sunday.

Small But Mighty

DUNCAN — Neil Vance may be small physically but he stands tall for the touring Stranmillis College rugby team from Belfast.

The five-foot two scrum-half kicked three penalty goals to lead his team to a 9-8 exhibition win Saturday over Cowichan of the Victoria Rugby Union.

Fly-half Pat Simmons scored a try in the first half for Cowichan with centre Teg Bellis adding another four-pointer in the second half.

The win was the third in four B.C. stops for the Belfast club. Fifth game in the six-game tour for Stranmillis is Tuesday against University of Victoria Vikings at 7:30 p.m. Royal Athletic Park.

Stranmillis winds up its B.C. visit next Saturday against Castaways at Royal Athletic Park with that match also slated for 7:30 p.m.

In the Canadian Armed Forces, you can be almost anything you ever wanted to be.

A Canadian Forces base is a mini-city. Every skill from dentistry to fire-fighting is needed.

We can give you most of these skills.

You could learn trades ranging from radio-technician to auto mechanic. These are skills you keep; a passport to security for the rest of your life.

But trades are not all we offer you.

In "Maritime Command", you'd be part of a team running a ship and visiting other countries.

In "Air Command", you'd work with jet fighters and transports, maybe as part of an air crew.

In Combat Arms, you'd learn all the skills of survival while living the sort of rugged, outdoor life that's impossible anywhere else.

And if you measure up, you could be paid to go to school or university to further your education, which could lead to an officer's career.

The Canadian Forces have a lot going for you. A chance to travel and get out of the rut. Good pay while learning a valuable skill. The comradeship and chance to make lifelong friends that only comes by being part of a team.

Get involved. Ask us where you fit in. Call your nearest Canadian Forces Recruiting Centre or Canada Manpower Centre, or send us this coupon and get all the information.

You'll be surprised at the number of opportunities that are available to you.

GET INVOLVED WITH THE CANADIAN ARMED FORCES.

ASK US ABOUT YOU.

Magee Goal Gives Gorge Cup Victory

Dennis Magee fired his second goal of the game with about two minutes left to play Sunday to give Gorge Molsons a 4-3 decision over Cosmpolitan Royals in the opening tussle of the Vancouver Island Soccer League's McGavin Cup competition at Heywood Avenue Park.

Rudi Kuebler and Bob Mackie scored about five minutes apart midway through the first half and Royals entered the last half with a 2-0 advantage.

Magee put Gorge into contention 10 minutes after the break when his corner kick eluded the Royals' goaltender.

Then Danny Green scored at the 25- and 35-minute marks to give Gorge a momentary lead before Kuebler came through to tie it up 3-3 with five minutes remaining.

Meanwhile, four Island League players have been invited to attend tryouts for spots on Canada's Pan-American Games side.

Bob Bolitho and Brian Robinson of London Boxing Club, Ray Telford of Nanaimo City and John McGuire of Victoria West are among 10 B.C. players getting a chance at the tryouts. A date and site for the week-long camp still haven't been set.

Tony Chursky, Gary Ayre, Bruce Miller, John Connor, Reno Agostinos and Joe Kovar, all of the Greater Vancouver area, are the other B.C. players invited.

CANADIANS LOSE CLOSE ONE

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (Reuter) — New Zealand had to work hard Sunday for a 2-1 win over the Canadian men's field hoockey team, the first test of the Canadian's tour.

New Zealand scored both its goals in the second half when Arthur Parkin and Jeff Archibald connected.

Canada's strong defence was backed by goalkeeper Jim McDougall of Toronto, with good support from backs Allan Hobkirk of Vancouver and Dave Bissett of Surrey.

Canada made a comeback after a series of corners and finally Hobkirk scored with a high shot.

Women Win 5-0

EDINBURGH (Reuter) — Wales pulled a surprise at the women's world field hockey championships Sunday, holding the Netherlands to a 1-1 draw.

The Netherlands needed to beat Wales to be assured of a place in Wednesday's final. The Welsh team can now reach the final with a win over Australia today.

In the other pool, for places seven to 12, the United States beat Belgium 1-0 and Ireland scored a 2-1 victory over Scotland.

In another consolation match, Canada blanked Bermuda 5-0.

PLEADS GUILTY

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Stovall, 26, former National Basketball Association player with Phoenix Suns, has pleaded guilty in federal court to distribution of cocaine. Stovall faces a possible 15 years in prison and $25,000 fine when he is sentenced Sept. 22.

Practices a Problem

Brampton Arrives For Mann Cup Final

VANCOUVER (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors arrived here Sunday for the best-of-three Mann Cup Canadian senior lacrosse final with a 10-day layoff being the biggest champion Vancouver Burrards opens Tuesday night at Vancouver's Pacific National Exhibition Forum. The second game is scheduled Thursday with the third, if necessary, set for Friday.

The Excelsiors arrived with 23 players, including three goalies.

Lotton, a former senior player who took the Excelsiors to the Ontario Lacrosse Association title in his first season as a coach, added junior standouts Bob Burke and Greg Wamsley to his roster for the series.

Burke led his club in scoring this year and was third in his league while Wamsley, a six-foot, 195-pound forward and defenceman, also finished well up.

"We really don't know what to expect of the Vancouver team but we've got a big well-balanced club and should hold our own," said Lotton. "We can play a heavy checking game or a running game so we're not too concerned about the Burrards' style."

Excelsiors won the western title four straight over Owen Sound while the Burrards finished third in league play before beating defending national champion New Westminster Salmonbellies and Victoria Shamrocks in the playoffs.

"We scrimmaged with our junior club Thursday but other than that we haven't played for 10 days," said Lotton. "And we're having problems getting practice time here, although I understand we should have some floor time at the Pacific Coliseum Monday.

"My main concern is getting the team at least one good workout before the series starts."

Castoffs Star for '49ers

By The Associated Press

Norm Snead and Bob Hayes, two players shunted aside by other National Football League clubs, are providing new spark for San Francisco '49ers.

Snead, 36, and Hayes, 32, connected on touchdown passes of 18 and 31 yards in the first half and the '49ers went on to whip Denver Broncos 44-10 in NFL exhibition play Sunday.

The '49ers picked up Snead from New York Giants midway through the 1974 season, then obtained Hayes from Dallas over the summer. Both of their old clubs felt the players were past their prime.

In other games Sunday, Cleveland beat New York Giants 24-20, New England defeated San Diego 31-24 and New York Jets edged Washington 35-31.

On Saturday, Kansas City whipped Green Bay 31-3, Buffalo edged Atlanta 16-14, Los Angeles overpowered Philadelphia 35-0, Pittsburgh topped New Orleans 24-13, St. Louis downed Minnesota 13-6, Miami beat Chicago 21-10 and Cincinnati defeated Detroit 22-14.

Baltimore Colts play the Oilers at Houston tonight.

Snead completed 12 of 16 passes for 139 yards before leaving early in the second half. He took advantage of three Denver turnovers in the second quarter to roll up 23 points and break the game open.

Cleveland reserve quarterback Brian Sipe completed 15 of 18 passes for 143 yards, including a seven-yard touchdown pass to Gary Tarris in the third period that put the Browns ahead for good.

It was the Giants' first loss of the exhibition season.

Leon McQuay, picked up on waivers recently from the New York Giants and former running back in the Canadian Football League, for Toronto Argonauts, scored three touchdowns in the second half as New England overcame a 17-7 deficit. McQuay ran back the second-half kickoff 101 yards, then scored on runs from scrimmage of five and 56 yards.

It was a costly win for New England. Quarterback Jim Plunkett suffered a shoulder separation when tackled in the second quarter. He'll be out three to four weeks.

Csonka's Understudy Sparkles

By The Associated Press

Larry Csonka makes his presence felt, even when he doesn't get into the game.

With Csonka sidelined because of a groin injury, his understudy, Willie Spencer, stepped right in and rushed for 142 yards to lead Memphis Grizzlies to a 37-17 victory over the Hawaiians.

The triumph gave Memphis a one-half game lead over Birmingham in the World Football League's Eastern Division.

Meanwhile, San Antonio Wings beat the Southern California Sun 30-8 to take a one-half game lead over the Sun in the Western Division.

In Saturday night's games, Jacksonville Express beat Shreveport Steamer 22-15, Charlotte Hornets beat Philadelphia Bell 10-0 and Birmingham Vulcans topped Portland Thunder 28-6.

Spencer, a 230-pounder, was named the game's outstanding player. He carried 15 times before leaving the game in the fourth quarter with a bruised rib.

"The holes were open and I was running well," said Spencer, who credit's Csonka's tutoring with much of his success. "It was a great day —except for the injury."

The other members of the Miami Three, the trio of defectors from the National Football League's Miami Dolphins, made more tangible contributions to Memphis' success.

Jim Klick rushed for two touchdowns and 106 yards, while Paul Warfield caught a 14-yard scoring pass.

Johnnie Walton threw three touchdown passes, including two to Willie Frabier, to lead San Antonio past Southern California.

Seven JBAA Players Picked

Seven players from provincial-champion James Bay Athletic Association were selected to the B.C. side which will compete in the Western Canada section of the inter-provincial Carling Club rugby tournament Oct. 11-12 following trials Sunday at Macdonald Park.

B.C. is scheduled to face Alberta while Manitoba tackles Saskatchewan in opening matches. The winner of the Western section advances to meet the Eastern champion in the cup final Oct. 25-26 in Halifax.

Picked from James Bay were winger Chuck Shergold, centre Stu Barber, scrum half Daryl Noulette, hooker Ray Rogers, prop Casey Walt; second-row player Hans de Goede and eighth-man Gary Johnston, Pat Simmons of Cowichan, the only other Victoria Rugby Union player to be selected, is on the reserve list.

Selections:

Peron Wins In Cycling

Michel Peron outsprinted three rivals to win the Victoria Wheelers' road race Sunday on the Happy Valley Road.

Peron covered the 40-kilometre distance in one hour, six minutes and 15 seconds. John Smith was runner-up with Jack Leedham third and Pat Leask, all with the same time as Peron.

Mike Rasmussen finished fifth while Gary McKay was sixth, Barney Gingell seventh, Ken James eighth and Steve Barer ninth.

Bold Adrian Best

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Bold Arian went wire-to-wire to win the $25,000 Cape May Handicap on Saturday at Monmouth Park by a length. Carrying high weight of 126 pounds, Bold Arian held off challenges throughout the contest. Shore Patrol made a strong bid in the stretch, but could not overtake the winner.

Price of Wife Gushes In Oil-Rich Libya

TRIPOLI (AP) — Libya's oil boom may be pricing some of its women out of the marriage market.

A father used to demand a fee of about $3,500 in cash with a camel, sheep and some gold coins thrown in for marrying off a daughter.

But in a society fueled by oil, the groom's family in a "low-bracket" transaction now plunks down the equivalent of $12,000 in cash and a new car, in addition to the customary camel and a sheep or two. In the upper brackets, gifts of $35,000 in cash are not unusual.

Some men pay the inflated price as Libya's $5-billion-a-year oil income pumps cash into nomad hands which had none a few years ago.

Others, however, go west to Tunisia and east to Egypt where the price of most wives is said to be about $200 each, unofficial sources say.

The wife price inflation has led to a public education campaign against hard-bargaining fathers by Libya's revolutionary government.

"Marriage is a bond of steel, not money," declares one of the many government posters displayed in Tripoli.

The interior ministry recently denounced fathers "who sell their daughters like camels." The mufti, the Moslem religious leader, occasionally appears on television to argue against spiralling marriage costs.

This is the Libyan government's second foray into matrimonial matters since Moammar Khadafy and a group of young military officers toppled the monarchy six years ago.

In 1972, the government decreed that both spouses must consent to marriage. The new law even permitted eloping and took away the man's right to unilateral declaration of divorce.

Libyan women still lack an effective voice — they hardly dare drag their men into court — in matters of marriage and divorce.

But they are emerging from confinement in the bedroom, or the tent, and the kitchen. Also, those who miss out in the marriage market — or skip it — find a few options their mothers didn't have.

OUTLOOK FOR TV FOGGY

OTTAWA (CP) — The future of Canadian television is not bright, says Ernest Bushnell who predicts that within five years there will be a national cable television company importing United States programs.

Canadian television stations just are not able to compete with American-produced "audience-getters," said the former CBC vice-president and honorary chairman of Bushnell Communications. The latter company has a long history of involvement in television and radio broadcasting in the Ottawa area.

"I bet in five years there will be a national cablevision company for the importion of American programs, and revenues of private companies will go down.

"TV is entertainment and that's what people want — it's as simple as that. A program can be well-made and educational, but people won't watch it if it isn't very interesting."

He said Canadian programs are not as popular as those in the U.S. because the Canadian industry lacks the money to produce quality programming.

If a Canadian company has $1 million to spend, after overhead and other expenses, about one-half is spent on news and public affairs, leaving little to produce an "audience-getter" such as Cannon or Kojak."

He also said that setting a mandatory percentage of Canadian content for television programming is not wise economically.

HALF-FARE ON BUS FOR UNEMPLOYED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continental Trailways bus company has announced it intends to cut some fares in half for the unemployed.

"Our customers are mostly people with middle and low income, blue-collar workers who have been hit hardest," said Fred Currey, chairman of the board of Continental Trailways, "We hope to trigger a resurgence in job searches."

Currey said that if the Interstate Commerce commission approves, half-price fares will be available beginning next Monday to people with unemployment benefits. Tickets may be bought at the 50-per-cent discount until Nov. 6 for trips taken no later than Nov. 21. The special fare applies only to bus rides taken between 12:01 a.m. each Monday and 11:59 p.m. Thursday.

Advertisers Drop Show on Hunting

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System's Guns of Autumn, a special report about the killing of animals for sport, was telecast without most of its paid commercials.

A network spokeman said all but one of the scheduled advertisers cancelled their commercials for the Friday night program after being contacted by hunting and gun clubs, including the National Rifle Association.

CBS had been receiving critical letters from gun proponents throughout the United States since the network first announced that the news documentary was being produced, the spokesman said.

Bill Leonard, senior vice president of CBS, said the letters threatened a campaign to influence advertisers, but he said the network would not bow to the pressure groups.

"It is curious that these people think they can keep us off the air or from doing journalistic programs by putting heat on the advertisers and forcing them to withdraw," he said.

"They don't understand how this thing works. The programs will be televised with or without advertising. The advertiser has nothing to do with it in the first place."

The spokesman said the letters prompted CBS News to schedule a sequel called Echoes of the Guns of Autumn, for broadcast Sept. 28.

It will highlight the controversy over Friday night's program, on which Block Drugs, the lone advertiser, took two 30-second spot commercials. Sixteen other commercial half-minutes on the program were filled with promotional and public service messages.

What a Beauty...

It took more than an hour, but Hollis Edinger Sunday boated a 54-pound, 13½-ounce lunker to win the $10,000 first prize in the Seafair Salmon Fishing Derby out of Seattle.

Edinger caught the big fish off Point No Point in Puget Sound and landed it in full view of a Seafair patrol boat and nearby fishermen during the weekend competition.

The 37-year-old father of three is an occasional fisherman who was competing in his first Seafair derby.

Sir John Gains a Daughter ... Loses a Million

Spassky

LONDON — Sir John Waller would be a million dollars richer today if his wife had given birth to a son instead of a daughter over the weekend.

Lady Waller proudly declared: "She is perfect. I could not care less about the inheritance." A cousin, the late Lady Viola Waller, left Sir John 500,000 pounds sterling, now worth $1,050,000, but he gets only an income until he produces a male heir. After his visit to his wife and baby, he toasted them at a nearby pub and admitted. "It is unfortunate it was not a boy. Of course, I am disappointed," he said. "But we will have another go."

MOSCOW — Former world chess champion Boris Spassky plans to marry a French woman in Moscow, but she has been told to leave the Soviet Union before the scheduled wedding date. Spassky, and Marina Stcherbatcheff, a secretary in the commercial section of the French Embassy, said they believe Soviet authorities are trying to block the marriage. They now have a wedding date of Nov. 11 from the Soviet marriage bureau, but Miss Stcherbatcheff is due to leave here at the end of September for her home in France. Both said they are afraid that if Miss Stcherbatcheff, daughter of Soviet emigres who live in Genoble, leaves the Soviet Union she will not be allowed to return. "I feel like I'm playing against an opponent I cannot see at all," said Spassky. The 38-year-old grandmaster said he has lost his right to travel aboard during the last year, his apartment has been robbed and the marriage bureau has refused to give them a wedding date in September.

MANHATTAN, Kan. — A couple received minor injuries in a onecar accident caused by a bad case of the hiccups. Jimmy Rhodes, 27, and his wife, Christine, 21, received head cuts Saturday when their car ran off a Manhattan street and struck a utility pole. The couple's three-year-old daughter escaped injury. Rhodes told police he was holding his breath trying to get rid of the hiccups. He said he blacked out, and the next thing he knew the car ran into the pole.

PENSACOLA — A Florida woman whose prematurely born daughter was given a blood transfusion aganst her wishes says the infant's death was murder. Denita Ivey said Sunday that the death of six-day-old Julia, born three months premature, was caused by a blood transfusion given with the authorization of a guardian, Joel Cohen. Julia's twin, Karol, was reported in critical but stable condition early today at Sacred Heart Hospital in Pensacola. She also was given a transfusion. "Our baby was taken away from us by the welfare department and given this blood, which literally killed her," said Mrs. Ivey, a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect. She and her husband, Ron, objected to the treatment on religious grounds. "Whatever the doctor felt was necessary was the only thing to do," said Cohen.

WASHINGTON — Four women who defied their church's hierachy to take vows as Episcopal priests have been warned by one who preceded them: "You will suffer and you will hurt." But, added Rev. Alison Cheek Sunday during an ordination ceremony not recognized as valid by the bishop of Washington: "You will have joy and you will have peace." The ordinatin ceremony at he Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation attended by some 1,000 persons also was marked by protest. At a time in the cermony alloted for voicing objections, two men came to the front of the church to do so. Speaking of resigned Bishop George Barrett of Rochester, N.Y., who performed the ordinatons, Dr. Emile Oberholzer asserted: "This bishop is without jurisdiction over the candidates."

Tawny's dreams came true...

... when she was crowned Miss America Saturday night. Eighteen-year-old Tawny Elaine Godin admitted Sunday that she has dreamed of wearing the crown since childhood. I stayed up all night just looking at the crown," Tawny said Sunday.

A BED FOR A ROCKEFELLER

WASHINGTON — A $35,000 modern art bed was the hit of Nelson Rockefeller's first party at the nation's new official residence for the vice-president. Happy Rockefeller admitted she and the vice-president had not yet "inaugurated" the bed. She told a reporter, "you have to give us time." The king-sized bed, with its mink cover, has cage-like bars on both ends, two circular paintings and a large modern painting on a screen at one side. "You girls have a one-track mind," Henry Kissinger said when a group of women reporters asked him what he thought about the bed. "I think it's marvelous."

LUCAN FRIEND FOUND DEAD

LONDON — Dominic Elwes, a 44-year-old artist and close friend of missing British peer Lord Lucan, was found dead in an apartment here Friday night, police reported Sunday.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said a post mortem will be held, but he could not confirm newspaper reports that Elwes was suspected to have died of a drug overdose.

Elwes, son of a royal portrait painter, said recently he and Lucan, who is wanted by police for the alleged murder of the Lucan children's nursemaid, were "almost like brothers."

In an article last June, Elwes said he was sure "Lucky" Lucan was still alive and appealed to him to return home.

Elwes made world headlines in the late 1950s when he eloped with heiress Tessa Kennedy to be married in Cuba after a High Court order forbade a wedding in Scotland. The marriage lasted 11 years and broke up in 1969.

French Freezes Glycol

WINNIPEG (CP) — The federal government's bilingualism policy is keeping more than 40,000 cans of anti-freeze sitting idle in a Radio Oil Co., warehouse in Winnipeg.

Company president Gerald Hechter said he was informed by officials of the Consumer and Corporate Affairs Department that the cans can not be sold until French first-aid instructions are attached. The Hazardous Products Act states the first-aid instructions must be in English and French.

"The anti-freeze is a legitimate product that complies with everything you can imagine in English," Hechter said. "And then, because there is no French, the tell me I can't sell it."

He said the labels now on the cans include a skull-and-crossbones and poison warning.

However, with winter approaching and anti-freeze expected to be in short supply again this year, Hechter said the company will eventually have to affix a French-language sticker.

But he said this is another example of how the bilingualism policy is affecting businesses and he wants to attach a sticker explaining the company was forced to add the French-language label at costs that will be passed on to the consumers.

Is It "Anti-American" To Say An Unkind Word?

Columnists sometimes develop the protective hide of the rhinoceros, fancy themselves immune to any epithet and generally accept criticisms of their opinions with, at least, a wan smile. But the charge of "anti-Americanism" is a new form of abuse that's sure to penetrate the thickest skin and I don't mind admitting it's penetrated mine.

All of this began a couple of weeks ago when, in what I thought were the mildest of terms I documented the failings of certain American tourists. I took pains to point out that it was a minority of travellers abroad who were performing a disservice to their country, an opinion that's been retailed so often by travel writers, notably American travel writers, that it hardly qualifies as an original concept.

The result has been a virtual torrent of cries of "anti-Americanism," both from resident Canadians, visiting Americans and those many Americans who, for reasons of their own, have settled in this country. The point of the column in question has simply been swept away by invective.

Several readers, for example, have sent me a piece by James K. Nesbitt, of our town, which appeared in the Vancouver Sun. Mr. Nesbitt accuses me of "sneering in print" and goes on, "He looks upon Americans as loud, crude, vulgar, treacherous, stupid, dirty, silly, unbearable, intolerable, obnoxious" and observes, "he found the Americans with their awful garb, with their crackling voices, lowering the tone and the dignity of the grand old Empress."

I can only hope that Jimmy is a fairer historian than he is as a current commentator since absolutely none of these accusations were made or even suggested in the column I wrote.

★ ★ ★

Several visiting Americans took the same line, reading far more into the column than was there, and one dear boy has had the piece Xeroxed and sent to every travel agency in the United States "to show," he writes, "the degree of hate that Canadians hold to American visitors. I regret every dime that I spent in your country."

This is such a hysterical reaction that it seems doubly strange from a man who represents the most powerful nation on earth and makes you wonder if it is not a national neurosis.

Yet the reaction from many Victorians has been as hostile. One reader, a Mrs. Edith A. Muir, of Faircliff Lane, has gone so far as to cancel her subscription to the Times because of "this vitriolic, disgusting diatribe of bad taste and cowardice," clearly suggesting that we should never be beastly to visitors from whom we reap "such a handsome harvest of dollars each year."

It isn't that I mind losing Mrs. Muir, but when a reader takes that means of disagreeing with an opinion it makes a mockery of the basic freedom of expression.

What disturbed me most is the implication that it is "anti-American" to express any legitimate opinion that individual Americans or their governments are anything less than heroic.

I wonder if Jimmy Nesbitt, as an historian, has been above that sort of exercise, himself, in his years as a newspaperman? I would like to know, for example, what, if any, reaction he may have had when he learned that President John F. Kennedy had openly lied when he denied, as Adlai Stevenson unwittingly denied to the United Nations, that the Americans had no part in the Bay of Pigs armed invasion of Cuba when, in fact, the invaders were trained by the Americans and provided with air cover by the Americans.

Are we "anti-American" or is it a right and a duty to dissociate ourselves, for example, from a government agency that plotted and carried out the assassinations of the leaders of other nations and, in the case of Chile, to participate actively in an armed insurrection that took the life of a freely-elected president?

Is it "anti-American" to have spoken out at the heartless and futile bombing of unprotected cities in the Viet Nam adventure or an American president's secret and undeclared war against Cambodia?

Is it "anti-American" to have been sickened by the spectacle of a foul-mouthed American president and vice-president and so many of the men around them being run out of office for their abuses of power through fraud, political chicanery and outright lying?

Is it "anti-American" to think back over the long list of fascists who have been the great and good friends of America, who have used American arms and military training to keep the "stability" of feudal culture, the Francisco Francos, the Salazars, the Batistas, the Duvaliers, the Ching Kai-Sheks, the Stroessners, the tin-pot dictators of South America who are able to keep a people in bondage only with the assist of America?

I do not think of myself as "anti-American." I respect many of their institutions, their writers, their artists, their musicians, their vitality as a nation, their own capacity for dissent that has righted so many wrongs.

But I'm dam'd if I'll agree that it is a diatribe or a message of hate or, as Mrs. Muir put it, "a pipsqueak tickling the eagle's feathers" to write the simple truth.

'PRIMITIVE, OUTRAGEOUS'—POLLEN

Homes 'Despoliation' Continues

SORENSON
. . . seeks policy

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Old homes continue to be flattened by bulldozers in the Fern-Chestnut area near Royal Jubilee Hospital, despite clear indications from Victoria city council that it has no intention of rezoning the area for apartment development.

H. H. Sorensen, of 1829 Fern, spokesman for a group of concerned residents, said today a third home was demolished on Friday and the bulldozers doing the wrecking job also heavily damaged the building at 1837 Fern, home of former B.C. premier John Oliver.

"It backed into the house twice leaving big gashes," said Sorensen, "and they also took out the old leaded windows and other fittings.

"In all they must have cleared about an acre of old gardens and orchards."

Last month Sorensen drew city council's attention to the systematic "despoliation" of the neighborhood, and at the time Mayor Peter Pollen condemned the actions of developer Neil de Macedo as "completely unacceptable".

Pollen, who toured the area with aldermen and talked to residents last Thursday — the day before the latest demolition work — said at the weekend the deliberate running down of the Fern-Chestnut area is an example of blockbusting "of the most primitive, outrageous type".

"I am outraged by this," said Pollen. "I have followed this situation for about five years — it was the former mayor of Victoria, Claude Harrison, who first brought it to my attention."

He said a master plan for Victoria, produced in 1965 by the now-defunct Capital Regional Planning Board of B.C., had suggested "in a theoretical way" that the Fernwood district be earmarked for substantial multiple-dwelling redevelopment.

"Using this report as the basis for the rape, some people have been hacking away at this community."

The mayor said some area residents have been under considerable pressure to sell their homes.

He cited a November, 1971, letter to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rendle, 1853 Fern, from William Weldon, an associate of de Macedo's.

The letter noted that talks were in "favorable progress" with City Hall's planning department concerning closure of a narrow lane giving access to a small neighborhood park (Closure was necessary for the developer's proposed land assembly).

"I hope you realize we do not enjoy asking people to relocate but you must appreciate our position from an investment point of view," the letter stated.

"Unfortunately, due to business pressures on Mr. de Macedo and myself we may be forced to build on the property surrounding your own. We sincerely hope the situation will not deteriorate to this degree."

Pollen's comment on the letter: "I think this is a conspiracy to put these people's homes in jeopardy. It's absolutely deplorable."

But Sorensen said the Rendles have been on the receiving end of even more pressure and threats. On one occasion they were sent a copy of an agreement for sale, duly completed and signed on behalf of the developer, "and all they had to do was sign on the dotted line."

Rendle, however, has no intention of yielding to the pressure and has just installed a new roof on his home.

Developer de Macedo demolished two of the homes on his Fern-area holdings in June, shortly after council rejected his application for rezoning to build a 46-suite condominium.

Last month, when residents' complaints surfaced at City Hall, he told the Times he had no plans to submit a second rezoning application. He said his only motive in demolishing homes that were "beyond repair" was to clean up a run-down area.

Sorensen and his neighbors maintain that most of the homes concerned were, or are, in reasonable to good condition and those that had deteriorated did so purely through neglect.

Sorensen's latest letter to council on behalf of the Fern Street Area Association requests an early policy statement "declaring they have no intention of changing the single-family dwelling zoning of the area in the foreseeable future."

Several council members interviewed by the Times indicated their willingness to support such a policy statement, but stressed they would not want to tie the hands of future councils with any guarantee for an indefinite period.

"Council has no current intention of changing the zoning, and I can't foresee this council doing so," said Ald. Mike Young.

"The present council is unalterably opposed to what appears to be blockbusting in the Fern Street area," remarked Ald. Malcolm Anderson. "We are all united in that respect."

Said Ald. Alf Hood, chairman of the zoning and planning committee: "I am sure council will take the position that merely because property has been allowed to deteriorate, that in itself is not justification for rezoning."

But, until the Municipal Act is changed by the provincial government, there appears to be no hope that city council can grant another request of the frightened residents of Fern Street.

They want the city to refuse demolition permits until the developers concerned have obtained rezoning and full approval of their plans.

Legal sources say the city has no power to withhold demolition permits except where the property in question has a heritage designation imposed by bylaw.

In any case, said several aldermen, exercising such discretion would prove enormously difficult, involving as it does interference with basic property rights.

Winery Plans To Move Out

Jordan Wines Ltd. plans to move its $5 million winery to the mainland but no date has been set for the change, company officials said today.

About 75 permanent employees would be affected. The winery hires a peak of more than 115 at harvest time.

The company is negotiating with Surrey municipal officials for permission to buy 15 acres of land and build a winery there.

Preliminary negotiations have been completed and the proposal will go to Surrey council some time today.

The 15-acre parcel for which Jordan Wines is negotiating is part of a proposed 70-acre light-industrial belt the municipality is establishing. The provincial government owns 20 acres of the parcel, the municipality about 15 and private owners another 35 acres.

Jordans plans to establish a tour winery, similar to those in California, including a wine-tasting room and vineyard.

The winery has been in the Victoria area for 52 years. It was long known as Growers Wine but in 1973 it was sold to Canadian Breweries which owns Jordan Wines, along with Castle and Ste. Michelle.

The winery was consecutively called Castle, Jordan and Ste. Michelle.

The company has experienced difficulties in marketing its products because it must import grapes from the Okanagan, process them here and then ship most of the wine back to the mainland.

Difficulty in obtaining suitable mainland sites has presented an earlier move to the mainland.

Ask The Times

Q. I would like to obtain information on the habits of swallows, including facts on usual lifespan, whether they return to the same nests and when they fly south? — H. H.

A. The provincial ornithologist says the lifespan of a swallow is usually short and often die in their first year. But lifespan can range from two to three years. Swallows tend to return to the same vicinity and migration usually begins in late August or early September when they fly to California or Mexico.

Old Schools to Be Studied For Ways to Save Money

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

Starting Tuesday evening Greater Victoria school trustees will begin what is expected to be a lengthy examination of older schools in the district.

Object is to find ways to save money, either by consolidating schools, closing obsolete school buildings or other methods.

Some possible ways of doing this are outlined in a report prepared for the trustees by Sig Dietze, who was head of the construction and maintenance department until the end of August.

Dietze says that Central junior high school is now overcrowded and is scheduled to have a $300,000 addition built.

"A few blocks north of Central, Victoria secondary school could accommodate several hundred additional students," says the report.

"Even without additional construction, Central should be able to accommodate all comers by 1979."

So why not move Central Grade 10s to Vic High until 1979 and skip the new addition, says the report.

Economically the idea is sound, it says, but for personal and social reasons it would be hard to make the shift because many parents, students and teachers might object.

Another example is Lampson elementary school, now scheduled for a $311,000 addition.

Yet the combined student enrolment of Lampson, Macaulay and Rockheights elementary schools is dropping, says the report, and by 1979 the combined enrolment of the three schools could be accommodated in Macaulay and Rockheights alone

"If our projections are correct, all this expense (at Lampson) may be unnecessary," says the report.

"There are however, considerable community pressures to proceed with major construction at Lampson . . .

"Logistically, Lampson could be closed by 1979. Economically this would be desirable . . . Educationally the pupils would be as well served by attending Rockheights and Macaulay.

"But for personal and social reasons it would be an undesirable move."

Other possible money-saving steps suggested in the report:

— Move students from South Park school into Margaret Jenkins elementary, which has many vacant classrooms, so two schools would be combined in one building.

— Halt plans to build the 320-student Edgelow elementary school in the Gordon Head area and bus children back to Willows elementary, which has room for them.

"Educationally, busing is probaby not desirable for elementary school children," the report adds.

"Social consequences would doubtless also be of major concern."

— Close Burnside elementary in 1976, and possibly use the building for supplies or as a teacher centre.

— Don't build the planned science wing on Lansdowne junior secondary school. Instead, use the Dean Heights junior secondary building for Lansdowne after Dean Heights students are moved to the planned careers school at S. J. Willis junior secondary.

The school board is expected to spend several months discussing the various proposals.

Boy Fair After Bike Hits Truck

A 14-year-old boy who rode his bicycle into a moving truck is in fair condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital with severe cuts to his left arm and leg.

Gordon Bartleman, 850 Stellys Cross Rd., Brentwood Bay, was taken to hospital after the accident that occurred at his home at 3:05 p.m. Sunday, Central Saanich police said.

Bartleman rode out of his driveway onto the street and hit a truck operated by Ronald E. Crocker of Brentwood Bay.

Police said bushes cut down motorist's vision.

THIEVES GET $2,000 IN BURGLARY

Thieves took $2,000 in an Esquimalt break-in Saturday that police say occurred at a home adjoining a grocery store.

About $1,000 in U.S. currency, $800 Canadian and $200 in cheques were stolen from the home of Andrew Lavis at A B Grocery, 526 Head St.

The theft was reported around midnight, say police, and occurred sometime earlier in the evening when no one was home.

Bats Found Free Of Lethal Rabies

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

Four bats killed or found dead in Greater Victoria this summer underwent laboratory examination for rabies and all proved to be free of the lethal disease.

But across British Columbia there have been seven cases in recent months of bats which did turn out to be rabid. Two were found in the Comox district on Vancouver Island.

Dr. Allan Arneil, regional health officer for the Capital district, said one of the four local suspect bats were killed after "dive-bombing" some construction workers.

Two others were found dead in houses and the fourth, reported to be dead in a clump of grass, proved very much alive when collected for analysis.

None of the seven positive cases in the province produced a fatality among people, but that doesn't mean those who encounter bats behaving in a peculiar manner shouldn't take great care said Dr. A. A. Larsen, provincial epidemiologist.

They should, because rabies if untreated is always fatal, he said. There is only one case in medical literature suggesting otherwise and in that case there's some question whether the victim actually had rabies.

Larsen said he knows of no case in B.C. where anyone has died of rabies. But an incident on the Gulf Islands this summer gave an American family of tourists and local authorities a scare.

It began when a boy in the family had a bat light on his shoulder and bite him on the ear in a Washington state park. The father caught the bat, which was shipped away for analysis while the family moved on to holiday on the islands.

American authorities notified local health officials that tests showed the bat was rabid and the hunt for the family began. The RCMP eventually located them on Thetis Island and the youngster was flown home for treatment.

Larsen said there are two things for everyone to bear in mind if they became involved in an incident with a bat suspected of being rabid.

First is to capture the bat, without "mashing" it. It's the bat's brain which has to be studied and flattening a bat with a shovel doesn't help. The bat needs to be preserved too, and Larsen suggests putting it in a heavy plastic bag and then keeping it in a refrigerator until it can be picked up by health staff.

Second, of course, is to seek medical help promptly.

Where the suspect bat escapes, doctors usually feel compelled to recommend anti-rabies treatment as the safest course. Treatment involved injections over 21 consecutive days and Larsen has described the treatment as "a miserable thing."

The injections produce "local tenderness" and because they involve a protein foreign to the body, there are varying degrees of reaction.

Larsen said the vaccine still being used was developed in the last century. A new vaccine developed in Toronto could prove safer and more effective but there's a problem with it.

Rabies is a disease which no one dares experiment with because if the vaccine fails, the patient is dead. The new vaccine has never been tested in a crticial situation, he said.

When bats act peculiar, take care

Weed Project Success

A pilot project carried out under the supervision of Dr. Bob Langford this summer has proved lake weeds can be easily composted.

The project was funded by Greater Victoria Environmental Centre to which Langford will be submitting a report.

Langford said today his first recommendation will be to buy a weed-cutting machine that will gather and compress the weeds.

This summer, weeds from Beaver Lake were put in five double bins in three different combinations — hay and weeds, sawdust and weeds and weeds only.

In two weeks all combinations were broken down into humus, the hay and weeds producing the best compost.

The weeds were turned from one side of the double bin to the other twice a week.

"The key is to keep oxygen by moving the weeds," Langford said today. "Even if people just took the weeds and added grass clippings and leaves it would make good compost."

During the summer, five students kept bins filled with weeds that were available to the public for mulch and compost bins.

Langford said lake weeds are a problem for the Capital Regional District and not confined to Saanich lakes.

Friendliness Lacking

DEAR ABBY: I certainly don't agree with the advice you gave THE GIRL ACROSS THE WAY. Her apartment faced a 10-storey high rise. She could see into the apartment of a gentleman who was always alone. Since she is alone, too, she asked you how she could meet him. You told her to pull down her shade and forget it.

Abby, that's the trouble with this world. If more people met strangers half way, there would be a lot less loneliness.

I would have told that girl to put a big sign in her window as follows: "WHAT'S YOUR PHONE NUMBER?" — Friendly.

DEAR FRIENDLY: That kind of "friendliness" is asking for big trouble. Exhibiting such a sign in a city might be too "successful" to succeed.

DEAR ABBY: Shame, shame, shame!!!! This is 1975, and I am disgusted with your old-fashioned advice to the 28-year-old woman who inquired about the best way to meet an apparently lonely gentleman across the way.

A little casserole, a bottle of wine and a knock on his door will tell her all she wants to know.

Wake up, Abby. Honesty is still the best policy. What's wrong with saying, "Hey, I'm lonely?" — Cathy.

DEAR CATHY: "A little casserole, a bottle of wine and a knock on the door", sounds like Little Red Riding Hood, revisited — complete with wolf.

I'm all for honesty, honey. But I believe in safety first.

DEAR ABBY: I was saddened by the cold finality with which you dismissed GIRL ACROSS THE WAY's letter.

May I offer a solution?

Honey, if you want to meet that dude, hang a sign outside your window: "Want to come over for a cup of coffee?" Or maybe a safer, "Meet you at the corner drug store in 15 minutes."

If he doesn't show up, then she can pull down her shade and forget him. — Liberated.

DEAR ABBY: I have a solution for GIRL ACROSS THE WAY. I'm in advertising and believe in it.

If I were that girl, I'd put a big sign in my window, reading, "Good movie on channel 6 at 8 p.m."

And even if the gentleman responds with a sign that reads, "It's a rerun," at least she's gotten his attention/and might get something going. — Ft. Smith.

DEAR ABBY: You will probably be hearing from a lot of kooks who will be blasting you for telling that girl across the way to pull down her shade and forget the guy she sees sitting in his apartment night after night all alone.

Well, I applaud your good sense! Lord only knows what kind of nut he could be.

I'm not saying he couldn't turn out to be a very nice person, but it sure isn't worth the gamble.

Sign this, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread," — Nobody's Fool.

DEAR NOBODY'S: Thanks. I needed that.

Mothers of Invention Out of Necessity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women are the mothers of invention — and often necessity is the reason.

The liberation movement, however, seems to have had little effect on their inventiveness. The U.S. Patent Office says that about two per cent of the 70,000 patents granted annually are to women, sometimes co-inventors with men, and the percentage hasn't changed from year to year.

Necessity obviously has a factor in a woman's inventing the first machine for sweeping the floor — a patent granted in Britain, May 5, 1811, to one Jane Hume.

Necessity also probably figured in the first woman to be granted a U.S. patent — Mary Kies, of Killingly, Conn., in 1809, for her method of "weaving straw with silk or thread,."

I wouldn't be certain of necessity's role for the woman who is credited with the ice cream crank freezer, Nanc yJohnson, in 1864.

Maybe it was just the fun of the game for Betty Galloway of Georgetown, S.C., who in 1968 patented a toy for forming bubbles. She was 10 at the time and the youngest female patentee in U.S. records.

Another youngster is Bettty J. Schroeder, of Toledo, Ohio, who at 13 recently received two patents. One is for a lined phosphorescent backing sheet to be placed under writing paper so that the user can see where to move a pen or pencil without the aid of light. The other adds an overlay sheet with designs to facilitate drawing pictures, playing games or performing magic tricks.

Patent office files include a number of famous women among its patentees. Lillian Russell, the actress, singer and famous beauty, in 1912 patented a "dresser trunk".

Mrs. W. Guglielmi (Mrs.) Rudolph Valentino) in 1926 patented a "combined coverlet and doll." She was known professionaly as N. Rambova.

And Dorothy F. Rodgers, wife of the composer Richard Rodgers, holds a registered trademark for the "Jonny Mop." The patent office explained that a trademark identifies goods and services, as those associated with, say, Coca Cola or Greybound bus.

The range of patents is wide among recent ones granted women. The patent office listed several on roses issued to Mrs. Esther G. Fisher, of Woburn, Mass.

Since 1930, the office has issued patents on roses and other flowers, fruits, trees and shrubs representing a distinct varity.

Dixie Edwina Gilbert, employed at Phillips Petroleum, in Bartlesville, Okla., since the late 60s has received 25 patents in the field of chemical compounds and fibrilation. That's among the largest held by one person.

This year alone has been a busy one for women. Among those issued patents are:

Josepone Gaylor, of Rock Hill, Mo.; for a filter in an automobile exhaust system Marjorie Jean Smith, of Walnut, Calif., for an improved trailer towing mechanism.;

Bonnie B. Koo, of Pacific Grove, Calif., for a putting practice green; Henrietta Krzewinski, of Old Bridge, N.J., for a disposable surgical gown with a front panel made of liquid impervious material.

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: I own a 1971 Plymouth with the 318-cid-V8. It's very hard to start cold. I've had the choke checked twice, and it's apparently okay. Once warm, no problem, but cold it's a bear.

CRANKING

Dear Crank: Some Holley 2-barrel carbs on Chrysler products make for hard starting with the screws holding together the two halves of the carburetor work loose. Sounds complicated, but it's not. If you find any loose screws on the outside of your carburetor, simply tighten them. If that doesn't do it, write me again.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mike: This week my '68 Rambler has decided to go in reverse and to drive forward in neutral. This is with the automatic transmission. How much trouble am I in?

NO CONTROL

Dear No: I'd say you're in for an overhaul. Sounds like the forward clutch inside your trans isn't releasing.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mike: My 1959 Chevy pulls to the right at all times, the brakes dragging, but they're all free and clear. Could the problem be in the power steering?

HEADED RIGHT

Dear Headed: Yes—a bad valve in the power unit can cause pulling to one side. So can front-end misalignment.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mike: The engine in our 1972 Courier surges at all speeds after we push down the gas pedal and then release it. It does this standing still or moving. What gives?

SURGEON

Dear Surge: Could be a number of things: the gulp valve in your smog system could be stuck open. That's my primary suspect. But it could also be a maladjusted carburetor — choke, idle mixture, etc.

Story Behind Signature On Those Watercolors

elizabeth forbes

Take a natural aptitude for design. Add to it a delightful use of color. Put in good brush technique and a keen eye for composition.

Mix well and you have an artist who uses a water color medium to paint our wild flowers with the same meticulous attention to detail that you see in Fenwick Lansdowne's paintings of birds.

Tuesday night a showing of these flower paintings will open at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. And, let me suggest you do not miss seeing them.

Signature of the artist is J. Ward-Harris (the J. stands for Joan.) And when you look at it you marvel not only at the delicate details of the paintings but at the story behind that name.

As Joan Ward-Harris tells it, she first became interested in nature when she was a small child back in Devon, England.

"I did a lot of drawing then," she said, "and when I was 11-years-old I even wrote a book on botany."

She loved arranging flowers, too. So it was natural that after boarding school days she went on to art school where she learned "the usual stuff" as she puts it.

Then, as she was growing up she decided she wanted to come to Canada and to study tree pathology in this country.

"That dream never materialized," she told me. "Instead, depression days between the two world wars hit us and I had to get out and earn a living the best way I could."

Earning that living didn't include drawing, writing or flower arranging.

Rather it saw her travelling all over Europe to give exhibitions of ballroom dancing and high diving (the latter resulted in permanent injury to her neck), and finally returning to England to become secretary to the beloved movie star of that day — Leslie Howard.

During the Second World War she married Edward Ward-Harris and in 1952 they came to Canada and eventually to Victoria to make their home.

"I started to breed Irish wolf hounds here to make a little money," Joan remembers. "Then, as a hobby, I decided to learn to play the piano."

Here her tremendous capacity for work, her enormous powers of concentration and her belief in "doing things 100 per cent or not at all" urged her on to practising eight hours a day and resulted in her sitting for degree examinations within five years.

Shortly afterward her hands gave out and the piano was closed for all time. The old neck injury also flared up and Joan Ward-Harris was sidelined for many weeks.

By now she and her husband were living in their own home on a wooded acreage off Prospect Lake Road. And it was there that Joan sat out her convalescence, in a chair beside a picture window from where she could see tall trees, moss-covered rocks and carpets of wild flowers.

Up to this point — and in all the years since those depression days between the two world wars — she had not touched a drawing pencil nor a paint brush.

"Suddenly however, as I made friends with the squirrels, racoons, fawns and the birds (including a blue heron on a small pond below the house) and as I watched the wild flowers bloom and fade, I found a pencil in my hand and I was sketching what I could see from my window."

That was three years ago. Another year and she was working seriously in water colors and concentrating on the wild flowers.

Today, the dining room in the Ward-Harris home has been changed into a studio, and there this clever artist, with her natural sense of form and color, works many hours of every day.

Despite this fact she makes it clear there will never be a tremendous output from her brushes.

The reason? She believes in working only from living flowers and not from photographs.

JOAN Ward-Harris displays her work; museum curator Roger Boulet looks on.

"To me painting done from photographs is cheating," she says.

Flowers die quickly, she reminded me. This means she must choose her subjects, arrange them, sketch them in pencil and paint them in water colors, before they fade.

"Otherwise I might have to wait a whole year before certain flowers bloom again."

Therefore, as she tells you, her output will always remain relatively small. Which, in my thinking, should make her paintings much more precious to collectors and to art galleries.

This versatile woman not only paints the wild flowers, she also selects the matts and frames those paintings.

"The night matt can do a lot for a painting," she believes.

She also has in the making (and nearly ready for a publisher) a book on wild flowers of the western provinces, including British Columbia, in which she is doing both art work and story text, and another about the animals that have come out of the woods around the Ward-Harris place, to become her friends.

Recently the Canadian Nature Federation and National Museum of Natural Sciences, selected three of the J. Ward-Harris paintings, Liquorice Fern, Indian Pipe and Poplar Buds, for permanent exhibition.

Selection of those to be shown at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, from September 9 to October 26, was made by the gallery curator, Roget Boulet. Be sure and see them.

Useful Food Values in Garden Beans

By HILDA BEASTALL

Green and yellow beans, freshly picked, are a surprising source of small amounts of proteins. Coupled with a good rating in vitamin A for the green and a fair quantity for the yellow, plus fair in vitamin C for both, these two easily produced home garden and allotment vegetables yield useful food values for family needs.

When combined with a high vitamin A and C vegetable such as beet tops, swiss chard, spinach or broccoli (the last name is excellent in both), the vegetable portion of the meal covers a lot of food needs.

Flavors and appearance of each vegetable is distinct enough to make an attractive plate, teamed with a small serving of fish, meat, cheese, or eggs, as an additional protein source.

Pole beans are bearing now too, with similar food values in the freshly picked pods. Why not feature some of these beans while the crop is still in abundance?

Use as many beans as possible on alternate days to avoid monotony, and in combinations to add plentiful natural vitamins while fresh local produce is available even though you must buy.

Red tomatoes, sweet corn-on-the cob, the roots of beets, and the good old standby carrots, are alternate teammates for green and yellow beans.

An advantage in preparation of these beans is that when still young and fresh they need only topping and tailing, plus perhaps a slicing down the middle of each to lessen cooking time.

Pole beans usually, but not with all kinds, need stringing down each side before cooking but the flavor is distinct enough to warrant growing them for September meals. Use the same as bush beans.

The early beans are variously known as French beans, bush or dwarf beans, or snap beans. Probably 25 varieties are grown locally.

Few people really like uncooked beans, but the raw flavor is worth noting so that the cooking period is kept brief enough to retain some of the special freshness and texture.

For a green bean salad, cook in boiling water for 15 minutes or only just long enough to lose brittleness but not to lose crispness. A fine distinction — but one for you to make. Drain the beans at once, keeping the liquid for another use. Cool the beans before adding to other ingredients.

Any of the beans are prepared in the same way for cold plates.

Pods which are mottled with purple will become all green when cooked, which is unfortunate from the viewpoint of color effect on the plate. Their flavor is delicious.

GREEN BEAN SALAD

2 cups cooked green beans
1 cup sliced cooked small beets
2 cups shredded green lettuce
1 cup shrelded (uncooked) spinach or beet leaves
2 hard cooked eggs

Dressing:
¼ cup sunflower oil
2 tbsp fresh lemon juice
½ tsp salt
1 tsp sugar
1 clove garlic, split homemade yogurt as topping

Combine dressing ingredients in glass jar with lid. Shake well and set aside while combining salad.

In salad bowl, combine cooked green (or yellow) beans, lettuce and spinach or beet leaves (or a mixture). Remove garlic from dressing.

Coat at once with the dressing and toss with wooden spoon and fork. On top arrange sliced hard boiled eggs, and sliced beets.

Serve with plenty of homemade yogurt. Serves 4.

Corn-on-the-cob completes a supper or weekend lunch.

For a cool early September day when new small potatoes have just been sorted out from those dug from the garden for storing, make a tingling hot vegetable soup with green or yellow beans and other fresh vegetables. Don't worry if you don't have exactly what is listed here. Substitute from the suggestions given earlier.

SEPTEMBER VEGETABLE SOUP

8 small new potatoes (1-inch diameter)
2 cups vegetable sotck (or water)
1 tsp salt
2 cups young green beans
2 cups smallest whole carrots
½ cup tiny onions whole
2 cups green peas or green lima beans
2 cups vegetable stock (or water)
¾ cup skim milk powder
¼ cup soy flour
1 tbsp brewer's yeast
½ tsp salt
3 tbsp margarine

Bring salted vegetable stock (saved from previous cookings) to boil. Add well scrubbed potatoes. Cook gently for about 5 minutes. Then add cut green beans, scrubbed carrots and peeled onions gradually so that boiling is quickly resumed.

Simmer for about 10 minutes; then add peas (or green limas) and cook for 5 minutes longer.

Meanwhile in a small saucepan heat the second amount of vegetable stock (or water) to near boiling. Mix flour, skim milk powder (can be either instant or non-instant), brewer's yeast and salt with some of the cold vegetable stock.

Add to hot stock, stirring to cook and thicken, about 5 minutes.

Pour into soup saucepan with the vegetables. Stir only enough to mix, trying not to break too many of the vegetables.

Serve each bowl with a square of margarine sprinkled with finely chopped parsley.

Lima beans are sometimes successfully grown here and are used much like green peas while the pods are green. Shell, and cook in boiling water to barely cover for 12 to 15 minutes. Test for tenderness without being soft. Drain (keep liquid for later use), add a few grains of salt, or just a knob of soft margarine and a sprinkle of parsley.

OAP Lodge Meets

With more than 150 members, the recently formed Evergreen Branch No. 133 will hold its meeting Friday at 2 p.m. in the St. Mark's Church Hall, 501 Boleskine Rd., near the Town and Country Shopping Centre.

There will be a guest speaker and nomination will be taken fnr a board of directors.

The branch, a member of the B.C. Old Age Pensioners Organization, is also welcoming handicapped persons to share its hall and facilities.

It is believed this is the first time pensioners and handicapped have gotten together socially. The meeting place is easily accessible for handicapped persons.

A get-together and card games will launch the new season Wednesday for the Langford 50 and Up Club at Cade Hall, starting at 2 p.m.

The group meets every Wednesday at the same time and information may be had by calling the president, Mrs. G. Bertrand, 478-5019.

FLYING NUN WINS AGAIN

Bo Mearns and her mare The Flying Nun have won the prestigious Potter Cup jump-off for the third year in succession at the Pacific National Exhibition's horse show.

This year, however, the Victoria woman had to share the honors. Mearns tied for first place with Barbara Kerr of Langley riding The Answer.

The two riders had three clear rounds before both fell victim to the brick wall when it was raised to a record PNE height of six feet, six inches. Both narrowly missed clearing the jump.

They will share the $1,500 prize money offered in the winner-take-all contest. The Potter Cup jump-off attracted a crowd of about 4,000 to the Agrodome.

Mrs. Mearns and Flying Nun won the Potter Cup last year and took the trophy in 1973 on Mista Cannora.

Mrs. Mearns and The Flying Nun fought out the battle for the William Sinser Cup the day before the Potter Cup jump-off. They were faultless throughout the competion and took top money in the $2,500-added event.

Kerr and The Answer were second with four points.

5th Officer Charged

TORONTO (CP) — A fifth Metropolitan Toronto police officer has been suspended and was charged under the Police Act on Friday, a police spokesman said Saturday.

The officer was S. Sgt. Harold Jukes, on the force for 32 years and a member of the fraud squad.

Four other officers, were suspended earlier in the week and charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The four, along with four other men, were charged as a result of widespread investigation into bookmaking. The eight were remanded Friday to Oct. 1.

Police Chief Harold Adamson said Thursday the investigation by Toronto police, RCMP and the Ontario attorney-general's office were stepped up in January after he had learned of a loan-sharking operation with international connections in Montreal, Las Vegas, Chicago and other United States Cities. Adamson did not elaborate.

Police estimate bookmakers take in $100 million a year in Metropolitan Toronto.

BCR Strikes Halted While Unions Talk

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union spokesmen say that the two unions which have staged rotating strikes against the British Columbia Railway three times in the past two weeks will hold off on further strikes until at least Wednesday.

Glen Bowles, spokesman for the United Transportation Union said Sunday the union is reassessing its position "in view of the current labor disputes and worsening unemployment in the province."

Bowles said in an interview that attempts will be made to try and meet with top officials of the railway and the government.

The UTU and the Canadian Union of Transportation employees are embroiled in a dispute with the BCR over overtime payments.

Meanwhile, the railway has agreed to meet with CUTE negotiators to discuss their contract demands in all areas except the issue of overtime.

Ernie Dermody, CUTE spokesman, said Sunday his union will hold off any further strike action until after the meeting, expected sometime this week.

Bowles said the union decision not to strike had nothing to do with the railway's announcement Tuesday of massive layoffs if the union staged further strikes.

Radioactive Tube 'Not Dangerous'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A container of radioactive material lost since Wednesday is not dangerous, a spokesman for Atlantic Richfield Oil Refinery at Cherry Point, said Saturday.

A search for the double stainless steel container about a foot long and an inch in diameter, is concentrated now at the refinery site.

After it was discovered missing, two coke shipments, one to nearby Bellingham, and one to Roberts Bank superport across the border in British Columbia for transshipment to Japan, were searched without finding the container.

Duane Smith, plant manager at the Arco Refinery, said the radioactive isotope is used in a fairly common level-detection instrument.

"The actual radioactive material is one-eighth of an inch by one-eighth of an inch," he said. "It's not really dangerous, but it wouldn't be wise to handle it."

Smith said a person could stand close to the container all day and all night without any ill effects.

Province Asked To Intervene

KELOWNA (CP) — City council has asked the provincial government to intervene in the strike by 275 inside and outside civic workers that began Wednesday.

In a telegram sent Saturday to Health Minister Dennis Cocke, council asks the minister to urge Labor Minister Bill King to intervene by having Canadian Union of Public Employees Local 338 remove picket lines that are halting repair to sewage outfall pipes.

Council says the pipes funnel waste into Okanagan Lake and because of their present condition effluent now is spilling into a shallow bay, threatening the health of nearby residents on a private water system.

City council wants the pickets removed long enough for a private contractor to replace several pipe couplings that were removed before the strike began.

The workers are on strike in support of wage recommendations made by a job evaluation study — a joint city-union study that was part of the 1974 contract agreement.

The city already has agreed to a basic wage increase of 32 per cent for outside workers and 28 per cent for inside workers and to a cot-of-living agreement that would take effect in 1976, the second year of the proposed contract retroactive to the beginning of this year.

Recommendations of the joint study, completed in August, were to be added to these basic agreements but the city has balked at increases proposed for half of the job categories.

City negotiators say that a mistake was made in the evaluation of some categories and while the study was set up to give civic workers here parity with coast workers, it actually recommends much higher salaries in some categories.

Manslaughter Verdict

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — William Gordon-Warner, 19, was found guilty Friday of manslaughter when he appeared in British Columbia supreme court charged with the fatal shooting of his brother.

Warner, originally charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment and tried on that charge, will be sentenced Sept. 26.

The jury was told that David Ronald Warner was killed Dec. 27 in Surrey by a bullet fired from a .22-calibre rifle.

DUNKED RAFTERS RESCUED

PEMBERTON (CP) — Former Olympic swimmer Ron Jacks of Vancouver helped rescue two persons Saturday when five rafts capsized in the Lillooet River about 20 miles north of here.

Darcy Barrett, one of the rafters, said a 50-person raft party organized by singer Terry Jacks, younger brother of 27-year-old Ron Jacks, was attempting to float down the river to the singer's ranch, 10 miles from here.

"About seven miles was tested yesterday and it appeared to be safe for rafting," said Barrett. "But a combination of a hot day and glacier water made the current too strong for the rafts in the first big rapid.

"Everyone was in the water during the first mile and Ron helped some of the people get to shore."

Jacks, who represented Canada at three Olympic games, said he didn't think the situation was that serious.

"It don't think anyone was in danger of drowining," said Jacks. "But I guess a person could hit their head on a rock or something."

After everyone was safely ashore, said Barrett, the two brothers completed the trip to the ranch in a raft by themselves.

Barrett said all the rafters were wearing life jackets.

Pemberton is 60 miles north of Vancouver.

B.C. Distillery for Gov't?

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Mayor Muni Evers says he will ask the British Columbia government to buy the B.C. Distillery Co.'s operations here unless both sides involved in a company labor dispute indicate they can resolve differences and avoid an announced shutdown.

Evers said Saturday that he will ask the company and the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, Local 604, next week if there's a chance of averting the closure announced by the company Friday.

He said if the parties think there's a chance of settlement, he would offer the city's help.

Mel Griffin, executive vice-president of the House of Seagram (B.C. Distillery's parent company), said in a news release Friday that the strike-bound B.C. Distillery Co. will close its operation in British Columbia. The operation includes warehouses in Vancouver.

Land Claim Delays Laid To Province

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Judd Buchanan, minister of Indian and northern affairs, said Sunday that the British Columbia government is holding back progress on the settlement of Indian land claims.

Buchanan, who was here to speak with various native groups, said during a news conference that the province has not yet accepted its responsibility as far as getting involved in general land claims.

"I'm delighted to see that the cut-off issue has finally been dealt with," said Buchanan. "But I want the general land claims issue dealt with as well.

"Basically all land claims for the province are in the same position. At this juncture we require provincial cooperation to move along."

The minister said the federal government has talked with the province and tried to get it to move ahead but "they will have to make the decision themselves."

"Coit cleans drapes with the finest equipment in Victoria!"

Merrill Lacheur is the man to consult.

As a professional Coit Cleaning Consultant Merrill Lacheur knows his way around draperies. Any fabric, any size, any color.

What's the Coit procedure? After your call, Merrill arranges an appointment, at your convenience. He'll visit your home and assess the scope of the cleaning project. He'll test the fabric, give you a professional analysis of the job, including a fixed price, which he puts in writing. That's the Coit cost, no surprise additions later on.

Then, he takes the drapes down, delivers them to the Coit plant on Burnside, and the professionals go to work. After a complete, 15-stage cleaning job, the drapes are returned to you. Now comes the important part. Coit hangs the drapes for your inspection. And then, after you're assured of satisfaction, you get the invoice.

Quite frankly, Coit's facilities are the finest in the city, and the results are guaranteed to please. Coit's never yet encountered a drapery cleaning job too big or too small.

"We're at your service"

As part of the service, Merrill will gladly give you free, sound advice on any aspect of drapery care. Coit invites you to call with all and any drapery cleaning jobs you have. Be assured that Merrill Lacheur puts his professional pride on the line with every cleaning job.

Coit delivers the kind of service most other cleaners don't even try to promise.

Chavez Staked on Ballot

LIVINGSTON, Calif. (WP) — Thousands of migrant farm workers started going to the polls in California Saturday to choose between rival unions or no union at all.

What allows them to do this is an unprecedented California law, passed last spring. It marks the first time in the stormy history of American farm labor that field workers may secretly indicate their choice under government protection.

By next Saturday, balloting will be completed at 60 to 100 ranches throughout the produce-growing areas of central and northern California. It is only a fraction of the total. But the results — despite a potential cloud of legal problems — should be decisive for California agriculture, and perhaps for many other parts of the nation.

The elections have been billed as a showdown in the long, convulsive struggle among three factions: Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Union; the Teamsters Union and the growers of California, the nation's largest agriculture state.

Most clearly at stake is the future of Chavez's AFL-CIO union. The charismatic, 48-year-old Mexican-American leader began organizing farm workers a dozen years ago and has carried his mostly Mexican-American based movement to strikes, boycotts, negotiations, victories and defeats.

Throughout, Chavez has claimed that if farm workers could make their choice without harassment, they would overwhelmingly vote for the UFW. On that assurance, and on the strength of his personality, a number of Americans and foreigners have boycotted, at various times, lettuce, table grapes and most recently, Gallo wine products.

In the meantime, the Teamsters moved into the fields in 1970 and in a few years had wrested away most of Chavez's contracts.

Chavez claimed that bullying tactics and collusion between the Teamsters and growers caused the UFW's decline. The Teamsters and the growers said the Chavez union lost because it was too rigid and demanding of its membership and mishandled workers through its seniority and hiring procedures.

The long-standing argument came to a head last week as the issue neared the ballot boxes.

The California law requires that elections be held within seven days of the time 51 per cent of a peak-season work force petitions for a vote. About 100 such petitions had been received by the end of last week. Elections were ordered in staggered sequence by the Agriculture Labor Relations Board, the state agency set up to administer the new law.

The elections are especially symbolic at the Gallo vineyards here, for the past two years the subject of an international highly publicized UFW boycott.

Ironically, Gallo, the nation's largest wine producer, was one of the first companies to sign with Chavez — back in 1967. But after the six-year contract expired in 1973, while drawn-out renewal negotiations were under way, the Teamsters moved in.

When Gallo negotiated a contract with the Teamsters, the UFW struck charging collusion. But Gallo replaced the striking workers, and Chavez resorted to the boycott. The next two years witnessed an intense, and often ugly, economic and publicity battle.

The UFW's contention that if given the choice Gallo workers would vote for the UFW, is now being put to the test. The Gallo balloting is scheduled for Wednesday and Chavez, aware of the psychological importance, has assigned his top organizing team to this relatively small election involving about 400 workers.

There are 23 volunteers from the clergy, colleges, United Auto Workers and several lawyers. Also present are Fred Ross Sr., who 23 years ago recruited Chavez as a San Diego community organizer; Dolores Huerta, union vice-president and Chavez's brother, Richard.

On the Teamster side, the campaign is being carried by three individuals led by a former deputy sheriff named Johnny Macias, from Imperial County.

"Why do I need more?" Macias, 33, asked recently. "We already have a contract and that gives us visitation rights. Our business agent has access all day long. It gives us the advantage."

COALS SHIPPED TO NEWCASTLE . . .

LONDON (AP) — Britain, whose rich coalfields fuelled the industrial revolution, is short of coal and it is importing thousands of tons — from Vietnam.

The state-run coal industry, which employs about a quarter of a million men, said Sunday the imports are even being sent to Wales, the mountainous land where mining is a way of life.

The order for Vietnamese anthracite marks the first time in 20 years that Britain's National Coal Board has had to buy coal from abroad.

It is necessary, said a coal board spokesman, because of a strike in the Welsh coal fields last year which has led to a shortage of anthracite, used mainly for central heating systems.

A first shipment of 100,000 tons has already arrived and more is due at the end of this month. It will cost almost $20 a ton more than home-produced coal.

"Under normal conditions, we can supply our own needs," said the spokesman. "This is only temporary."

Coal has been mined for more than 700 years in Britain and its organized coal industry was set up about 200 years before any other country. At its peak — in 1913 — 300-million tons were produced, one-third going abroad.

Last year's production, following a rundown of the industry over the last two decades, barely exceeded 100-million tons, almost all for domestic use.

Tory Concessions In Ont. Campaign

TORONTO (CP) — As the Ontario general election campaign moved into its second-last week today, opposition party leaders could chalk up two major concessions from the governing Conservatives.

Neither Liberal leader Robert Nixon nor NDP leader Stephen Lewis was satisfied with the chief weekend move announced by Premier William Davis on issues involved in the run-up to the Sept. 18 voting.

The premier announced after a Sunday night cabinet meeting that a 90-day freeze on gasoline and home-heating oil prices, due to expire Sept. 30, will be extended to Nov. 15 and further action considered for a legislature session which will start Oct. 21 if the Conservatives are returned.

Both the opposition leaders have been pressing for extension of the freeze, but on different bases from the way the cabinet acted.

Davis' other weekend move was an announcement that the government will create an institute of occupational health to improve health and safety standards in mining and manufacturing, a subject on which Lewis has been clamoring for action for many months.

Lewis called the government's gas-oil action "the politics of desperation" and renewed his urging that the freeze — imposed after the federal government authorized oil-price rises in its June budget — should be extended at least for the remainder of this year.

Even then, Lewis said, no increase should be allowed until the Ontario Energy Board has been given jurisdiction over gasoline and heating-oil prices and has ruled on any proposed increases.

Nixon also said the board must be given power to control these prices and said that, if elected premier, he would extend the freeze until this power could be legislated. He expected the mechanism could be in effect by the year end.

Premier Davis said in his announcement that the government expects by about Sept. 24 an interim report from a provincial royal commission studying oil products pricing. It would determine what action would be proposed to the legislature after the cabinet had studied the report.

"I believe this to be a reasonable and responsible approach by this government in its continuing efforts to safeguard the Ontario economy and protect the Ontario consumer," Mr. Davis said.

Making subminimum opening bids can be dangerous and costly, since partner, assuming that the opener has full values for his bid, frequently contracts for a poor slam contract. Such was the case in today's deal. However, with luck and skillful play combining, declarer fulfilled his ambitious contract.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

West's opening spade lead was won by dummy's king. The queen of trumps was then played, after which declarer carefully led the eight of hearts (instead of the three) to his king. The four outstanding trumps had just been gathered in.

The four of diamonds was now led, and when West followed with the deuce, South put in the board's jack. He breathed a sigh of relief when the jack won the trick.

Dummy's nine of trumps was then played and overtaken by South's ace. A second diamond lead came next, West capturing the trick with his ace. West exited with a spade, dummy's ace perforce winning the trick. When the king of diamonds was now cashed, it was revealed that the adversely held six diamonds were divided 3-3; and, hence, that South's remaining diamond was a winner.

The South hand was next entered by leading dummy's three of hearts to South's seven-spot. The nine of diamonds was then cashed, the board's four of clubs being discarded. Then a club lead was made, and dummy's queen was finessed successfully. The rest of the tricks belonged to declarer, with his only loser having been a diamond to West's ace.

To fulfill his contract, declarer had to be real lucky: West had to possess not only both the ace and queen of diamonds, but also the king of clubs. But even with the favorable placement of all three of these key cards, the slam contract would have been defeated if declarer had led dummy's three of hearts (instead of the eight) to his king. Had he led the three, he would not have been able to utilize his seven-spot as an entry to the South hand for the cashing of the fourth diamond, and the taking of the club finesse.

Astrological Forecast for Tuesday, September 9

By SYDNEY OMAR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Good for money, especially savings and investments. Changes tend to be for the better. Concessions can be made wisely. Agreeable travel conditions evident. Real estate can be inspected with a great deal of confidence. Seek out a Virgo for facts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Sort and sift early. Fine opportunity for creative talent. Family pride is starred. An endearing gift received. Sharing is highlighted so are joint efforts. An overdue debt is paid. Protect assets. Settle differences with Scorpio.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be ready for appreciation, rewards and love. Good health makes you beam radiantly. Show a smiling attitude. Cycle favors shopping, planning, taking thought for home and loved ones. Money budgeted wisely. Leo appears to be dominant.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Career prestige, status and reputation well served. Fine time for travelling, sightseeing, feeling one with the oncoming fall season. Some assessing of resources could be profitable. Flashing eyes attract tonight, but be careful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Money picks up momentum. You have the green light for business and job transactions. Domestic interests blocked in interest of outside matters. Emotional harmony and social pleasure accented happily this evening. Seek out Sagittarius.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Retreat and take stock. Someone may be pulling the proverbial wool over your eyes. Insist on proof of facts. Shrug off rumors. Avoid fanciful thinking. Look beyond the obvious. Young Aquarian is likely to be in the picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Rather than trying to accomplish too much in a short time, be satisfied to do less but complete it. Considerable expense saved by planning purchases ahead of time. Hold off a trip if possible. Make adjustments through diplomatic approach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid overreaching too soon, too fast. One who knows trends is observing. Be sure rather than hasty. In personal area, be sentitive to needs of one who has experienced emotional turmoil. Get perspective where ambitions are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent is on what you want as opposed to what you need. Idea is to make contacts beyond current contacts. If you do this, then goal is achieved. Otherwise, prepare yourself for role in the also-ran list. Ward off ennui.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent is on special relationships, creativity and self-expression. You come alive. You are more aware of who you are and how to focus your potential. You hear the sound of your own voice. Glory in self-discovery.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Practical issues dominate. You get to the core of matters. An experienced individual puts cards face up on the table. Admire frankness. View beyond the immediate scene. Your sales appeal runs high. Talk things over with Taurus.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friendly counsel may lack facts. Know it and act accordingly. Libra could prove helpful. If married, be very considerate toward mate. Slacken pace to be aware of subtle nuances. Some questions are ready to be answered.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY variety and progress receice the greatest stimulus. Occasionally things may happen so quickly that you feel as if you were being whirled about. However, the excitement should prove exhilarating. Success through personal initiative is highlighted next spring.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"It's still showing one o'clock," said Don, angrily shaking his watch. "What's the time?"

Joe glanced at his own watch. "At the next minute it will be just 20 times as many seconds before the hour as it will be minutes before four o'clock," he replied. "Okay?"

What a pal! But what would the time be that afternoon?

(Answer tomorrow)

Friday's answer: Five pairs at 95 cents, four at $1.25, three at $1.75.

Single Catch Decides Title

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — The 845-pound fish caught by Edward Joy of Chevy Chase, Md. in the 26th annual International Tuna Cup match Saturday was only an average-sized bluefin. But it won the world championship for the United States team because it was the only fish landed in the five-day tournament.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends in our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband and father, George Patrick Baggett. Also thanks to his fellow workers in the Postal Service and members of Victoria Curling Club. — Dorothy, Rick, Lynda and John.

The family of the late Walter Hinchcliffe wish to thank their many friends, relatives and neighbors for their kindness shown to a dear husband, father and grandfather during his long illness. Also for the many expressions of sympathy and donations to the Cancer Fund and Queen Alexandra Hospital. Special thanks to the nurses, orderlies and staff of Kenning 2 and Homer 3 of the Memorial Pavilion and nurses and staff of 2nd Central Royal Jubilee Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. J. D. Critchley for his kindness and care, Dr. Lockyer and many more too numerous to mention and to McCall Bros., Padre Toni Roberts for his comforting words. God bless you all.—Mary Hinchcliffe Roy, Marilyn and children.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BROOKS — In treasured memory of my son Neil Lamont Brooks, who died as the result of an accident at Westwood, Coquitlam B.C. on September 8, 1968. Still deeply loved. Always missed. Ever remembered. — Mother

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD. AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
—WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS.

Time to Re-Stock Herb Plants

Before the sun warmed soil becomes cooled with fall rains, home gardeners who are also homemakers preparing all meals at home, still have the chance of planting and sowing for winter needs.

Especially is this so with herb plants, or those used in small quantities every day for flavor as well as their contributions of trace minerals to daily food.

The two arts, gardening and homemaking, are ideally dependent one on the other. The foods we grow we learn to use in unconventional combinations simply by using them. Ultimately we grow what we use most often because of its possibilities.

Six plants which I would not choose to be without during the coming months are chervil, horseradish, mint, garlic, parsley and celery.

Celery is considered a vegetable, yet small amounts are constantly needed as flavor agents. It is not a plant everyone can grow; you either grow it or buy as needed during the winter.

Chervil will grow from fresh seed sown now outdoors where it is to remain for use all winter, or a dozen seeds in a ten-inch tub or planter on the balcony or sundeck.

Fine and delicate in texture, chervil has something of the look of parsley. In flavor it is distinct. When parsley no longer continues growing because of cool weather, chervil will have plentiful leaves to cut off and use in its place. Salads, soups, savory sauces, burgers, gravies, all are improved in flavor and food value by chervil.

If you have no parsley growing now, either sow a half dozen seeds at once, as for chervil, or see if you can get a young plant or two from a nursery.

The plants are biennial in habit, so that although growth may slow in cold weather, they will be reactivated in spring just as chervil begins to go to seed — very convenient for the homemaker.

Mint is another luxury I wouldn't wish to be without. It has so many uses; in tiny quantities to bring out the flavor of other herbs such as garlic and onions, or a little occasionally as a refreshing drink with lemon balm.

A root or two planted now in garden or balcony tub will give young shoots this fall and forever after. All you need to do is to confine the roots to prevent spreading, and cut down each stem as it begins to show flowers.

This cutting down ensures plentiful new shoots of good flavor, whereas flowering shoots lose much of their aroma and flavor. The woolly, almost grey, mint happens to be my favorite for general use, but there are at least 10 others available.

Garlic is something you have already harvested from your garden or allotment, or will need to buy as soon as new stock comes to the markets. Store what you have in a cool (not refrigerator cold) place where it will be dry.

Avoid squirming away from the word "garlic." Use it carefully to begin, then more boldly as you discover for yourself that fresh, properly sorted garlic does not announce itself to all comers.

Use garlic without cutting into the cloves. Pour boiling water over the cloves for a minute's soaking, slip off the skins with a sharp knife. The uncut and unbruised cloves then go into soups, gravies, all kinds of savory casseroles. Add the cloves at the beginning of cooking the other ingredients so that the oils come out into the food. Remove the still whole cloves before serving if you wish; there is little flavor remaining after a half-hour cooking.

Young leaves of horseradish from now until hard frost, and again by the first of March, are a source of flavor and vitamins. As with mint, confine the large roots in a tub or box.

The large thick root is used finely grated for horseradish sauce; but the leaves at two to four inches in length are a fine freshener for spinach, cabbage, and lettuce when these must be bought at the market.

Linked inevitably as producer and consumer, the home gardener has opportunity now to re-stock these herbs for use in cool weather meals.

Turkish Tremors Continue

LICE, Turkey (AP) — Small tremors continue to panic survivors of the earthquake that devastated a section of eastern Turkey two days ago. Officials say the quake killed more than 1,800 persons, and they fear the total will rise as they hear from isolated mountain villages.

Nemettin Esenler, a municipal clerk who lost eight members of his family, held out his bloody hands and tearfully said: "I dug out my two-year-old daughter Vedia from under a rock with these hands."

Women in dusty black shawls chanted mourning songs alongside the rag-covered bodies of their children.

The stench of death filled the air at Lice, capital of the province which suffered most from the quake at noon Saturday. The town of 8,000 was reduced to rubble. Officials said the burial grounds would not be large enough for the 840 persons believed to have died in Lice.

At least 1,000 more died in surrounding villages, officials said. The continuing tremors were small, but they interfered with the search for the injured and bodies buried in the debris.

Some survivors wandered around in a daze, trying to find relatives and possessions. Others fought over tents, blankets and clothing being distributed by rescue workers.

Military planes brought in 17 tons of food, blood, antibiotics and other relief supplies. Mobile hospitals and mobile kitchens were set up. About 2,000 troops worked alongside civilian rescue teams.

Meanwhile, many Moslems began observance of the month-long Islamic fast of Ramadan.

Premier Suleyman Demirel toured the area and pledged: "No one will be left starving or homeless."

The Turkish state radio played only classical music Sunday in mourning for the victims.

The Turkish quake measured 6.8 on the Richter scale and struck along the Anatolin Fault, which runs in a crescent shape from Turkey's Aegean coast northeast along the Black Sea and then south into the eastern mountains. A quake along the fault in 1939 killed 30,000 people, and 2,964 died in a quake in 1966 at Varto, not far from Lice.

A $100B Cleanup Bill

WASHINGTON (CWP) — Cleansing U.S. inland waters of man's pollution will cost industry and government between $97 billion and $130 billion by 1983, the staff of the National Commission on Water Quality has estimated.

The cleanup will result in higher prices for many consumer items, cost some people their jobs and some communities their factories, particularly in the northeast, according to the staff report.

The benefits of such expenditures would include improving commercial and recreational fishing, opening more beaches and swimming areas, and improving property values for those who own land near water.

The report estimates that economic activity resulting from opening more beaches will total $6 billion by 1985. Commercial and recreational fishing gains were put at $21.3 billion by then.

The draft report is likely to be revised before the staff submits it in October to the commission. It does not deal with the new question of possible cancer-causing substances in drinking water or other public health aspects.

Record Entries On Nfld. Ballot

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — With the Newfoundland election campaign just past the half-way mark, a record number of candidates completed their nomination papers by the official deadline Saturday.

When the voters go to the polls Sept. 16, they will have a choice of 151 hopefuls, four parties and several independents — more than half again as many candidates as they saw in the 1972 campaign.

Considering the number of parties, potentially there could have been at least another 50 candidates. But only the governing Progressive Conservatives and the opposition Liberals fielded candidates in all 51 ridings.

Former Liberal premier Joseph Smallwood failed in his aim, announced before the election was called, of finding 51 contenders for the new Liberal Reform Party LRP and came up with only 28.

On Saturday night, however, he was still predicting a Liberal Reform government with support from the Liberal party he once led for 23 years.

Under Gerald Painting in Pleasantville, the NDP fielded 17 candidates.

Altogether there are four independents, two of them independent Liberals.

Fighting on his government's record and urging Newfoundlanders on to a "voyage of destiny," Premier Frank Moores is opposed in Humber West by the LRP's Geoff Stirling, Fred Basha of the Liberals and Gordon Mullett of the NDP.

Stirling has been criticized by an NDP candidate and John C. Crosbie, the Conservative fisheries and intergovernmental affairs minister, for using his Newfoundland radio and television stations for political purposes.

But it was still too early to tell whether the premier would join the fray about broadcasting.

Still campaigning strong at age 74, Smallwood is opposed in Twillingate by Tom Doyle, the PC rehabilitation and recreation minister who lost his bid earlier this month to be nominated in his Ferryland riding.

The others in Twillingate are Liberal Woodrow J. Philpott, a sea captain and the NDP's Roderick W. Woolridge.

Liberal Leader Ed Roberts, a former health minister under Smallwood, is opposed by Marlene Maynard, the wife of manpower minister Ed Maynard who is seeking re-election in St. Barbe.

NDP and LRP candidates also seek election in Roberts' Strait of Belle Isle riding.

Missing from this campaign is the New Labrador Party, which won one seat in 1972 but then lost it when the member resigned, saying he could not afford to represent the far-flung district.

FOSTER PARENT COURSE

A course on Fostering for prospective foster parents will start Tuesday at 7:30 at the Human Resources Lounge in the Junction Centre Building, 1627 Fort.

This is a new approach to fostering adopted by the Capital Region branch of human resources and it's hoped it will reduce the attrition rate of foster homes in this area.

The branch is facing a crisis in the lack of homes with more parents leaving the program than are registering.

The course, which is mandatory for all prospective foster parents, is expected to better prepare the foster parent and thus cut the number of those dropping out.

It will cover all phases of fostering from how to handle difficult children to what help is available through human resources or in the community.

Anyone wishing more information may call Katie Dunn at 598-5121.

HOLDUP MEN BLAZE AWAY AT EACH OTHER

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Two of five gunmen were shot when they apparently fired at each other during a holdup at a bar, authorities reported.

Police said the two other suspected bandits were arrested and a warrant was issued for the fifth suspect.

Officers said the shooting occurred after a group of five men, all armed with handguns, entered the Uncle Bill's Bar and announced a holdup.

"Somewhere along the line, their plans went wrong. They started shooting at each other when they were in different ends of the bar. I guess they thought some of the patrons fired at them," a police spokesman said.

Police Hunt Blade Man

Victoria police are hunting for a young knife-wielding man who threatened a waitress at the Olympic Cafe, 636 Johnson, Sunday afternoon.

Waitress, Louella Graham, 20, of 2790 Cedar Hill Road, said a man — about five feet eight inches tall and wearing blue jeans, a blue coat over a yellow shirt and with shoulder-length brown hair — got up and left the cafe 3:15 p.m. without paying for his meal.

"I ran after him and as he ran past the Broad Street Garage, the garage man joined in pursuit," Graham said.

She said they cornered him near the garage and asked him to pay the bill of $3.50 when he pulled out a knife.

"He said: 'Don't push me around', then continued running."

They again pursued the man, but lost him in Bastion Square.

READY FOR BAYI

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuter) — John Walker, New Zealand's world mile record-holder, has returned home after an extended tour of European track meets and said he is prepared to meet Filbert Bayi in January if the Tanzanian world 1,500-metre record-holder can be enticed to compete here.

The Times public parks tennis tournament wound up in a blaze in sunshine Saturday at Henderson Park with new champions and a pair of returning winners. Taking titles for the second time in a row were Gordon Liebscher, who defeated Jon Ferry in men's singles, and Greg Booth, who downed Cameron Kring in boys' under-18 play. The new champs are Elvira Kapus, who beat Susi Miles in women's singles, and Cindy Marjorca, who defeated Penny Murray in the girls' under-18 division. In exhibition play, Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen avenged last year's loss to Oak Bay Mayor Brian Smith by beating him while pro star Mark Cox played one singles and two doubles matches. Story and pictures are on page 10.

Shoot U.S. Technicians Arab Nationalists Told

Times News Services

The Palestine Liberation Organization has called on Arab nationalists to shoot American technicians who may be stationed in the Sinai Desert under the Israeli-Egyptian pact.

"The Palestinian revolution . . . regards the U.S. military presence in Sinai as an enemy target that should be shot by every struggler and every nationalist in our Arab nation," the PLO newspaper Al Thawra said in Beirut.

The newspaper called the proposed presence of the American civilian technicians at warning stations in the Gidi and Mitla passes "dual occupation" of Egyptian land by the United States and Israel.

"We are confident the first shot will be fired by an Egyptian soldier, because the Egyptians are known for their nationalism and will never allow an imperialist American flag to flutter over any spot of Arab territory," Al Thawra claimed.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told Congress in Washington, today the cost of stationing the technicians, in the Sinai would amount to no more than a "a few hundred million dollars."

In testimony before the house international relations committee, Kissinger also said the number of American personnel needed to man the stations at the Mitla and Gidi passes would never climb above 200.

"In three shifts the number on duty cannot exceed 75," Kissinger added.

On another Mideast front Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi says Israel and Syria will begin negotiating a new Golan Heights peace agreement next month.

Beer Supply Limited

Limited stocks of bottled beer will continue to be avliquor vendors' as Labatt's ailable to Greater Victoria brewery carries on full production and absorbs the extra cost of using new bottles.

The Victoria brewery said today it is getting some stocks of empties from Courtenay, and other needs are being met through using new bottles, although at higher cost.

Bottled beer supplies ran out at most vendors during the weekend, and many licensed premises were also out or down to their last few cases as a strike of drivers and warehousemen of the Brewery Workers Union went into its fifth day.

On the mainland, where the strike at Pacific Brewers Distributrors Ltd. began Aug. 28, there is the threat of the dispute spreading Tuesday to interior outlets. Strike notice was served Saturday by 19 employees of Okanagan Valley Distributors, agent for Pacific Brewers Distributors, which could be struck as early as Tuesday.

That would affect beer supplies in Vernon, Kelowna, Penticton, Princeton and adjoining areas. Kamloops is already struck, having acted with Nanaimo and Vancouver.

Vic Woodland, manager of the provincial Liquor Administration Branch, said any licensee normally supplied by the Labatt brewery directly will continue to be supplied as long as the brewery operates.

Brewery trucks carry draught beer to hotel pubs using Labatt beer, and supply liquor vendors with bottled beer.

But houses using other brands of beer cannot get supplies of bottled or draught stocks because they rely on Pacific Brewers Distribtors.

Posties, Gov't Resume Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Postal union and government negotiators were to meet today with conciliation board chairman Judge Jean Moisan after a weekend halt in negotiations.

The planned resumption of meetings followed a strike threat on the weekend by the chief negotiator of the postal workers.

Judge Moisan of Quebec Superior Court returned on the weekend to his home at Arthabaska, Que., for personal reasons.

Spokesmen for both sides in the bitter dispute that could lead to a strike by postal clerks and inside workers by as early as Sept. 16, said the two parties would meet with Judge Moisan.

Jean-Claude Parrot, chief negotiator for the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, had said Saturday the talks had fallen apart and the government was not bargaining in good faith

Both sides said there was a possibility the three-man conciliation board would ask for a second extension to the conciliation efforts before preparing a final report.

The 22,000-member union would be legally entitled to strike seven days after the conciliation report is handed to the public service staff relations board. The board had until Tuesday to continue talks.

A union spokesman said the two sides have not touched on the major issue in dispute—wages, automation and fringe benefits — and are still bogged down on smaller articles.

"If the employer does not begin to negotiate in good faith, there's no doubt we will go on strike," Parrot told reports Saturday.

Parrot said in a press release that "the government now is behaving in a way which will deny the public its mail service."

"It seems to have no interest whatsoever in trying to reach a negotiated settlement," he said.

He said the union had been unable so far to achieve any of its objectives in such areas of reform of the grievance procedure, disciplinary procedures and seniortiy.

"Most of these are not very controversial items. What we want exists in mahy other collective agreements and yet we are running into a stone wall from the employer," said Parrot.

FINE COMEBACK by Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen (right) earned him 6-4 victory over Oak Bay's Brian Smith in Return Battle of the Mayors during finals day Saturday of Second Annual Victoria Times Public Parks Tennis Tournament at Henderson Park. Smith beat Pollen 6-2 in last year's first "battle" and led 4-2 this time before Victoria Mayor took control. See story and other photos on Page 10. (Times photo by Irving Strickland)

The race, with competitors sailing an average of more than five knots an hour, was won by Tom Loney's Viking 33 Goodbye. (John McKay photo)

Construction Job Cuts Threaten

A large portion of Greater Victoria's 6,000 construction workers could face unemployment this winter unless more projects are started soon, Construction Association of Victoria manager E. J. Phillips said today.

"We are concerned about the low level of tendering activity at this time," he said.

The drop follows a brisk first eight months with full employment in the construction industry.

He said a shortage of mortgage money and a sudden increase in interest rates could be major factors in the indicated downturn in construction.

Terry Farmer, president of Explorer Development Co. Ltd., an affiliate of Farmer Construction, said investors are concerned about a possible surplus in office buildings and they may be holding back for that reason.

Farmer said a vigorous program of office construction has been spurring the local economy during the first eight months but private enterprise is becoming wary of starting new office buildings until there is evidence of a demand for additional space. Some investors are interested in starting new buildings for warehouses and industrial projects but there is a shortage of available land for this type of project.

"All projects may be slowed down for a period because of the higher interest rates. That always gives investors second thoughts."

Gordon Reeson of Reeson and Pinch Homes Ltd. said there seems to be a surplus of office space in Victoria. High interest rates may delay starts in the apartment field,

CPU STRIKES RICHMOND CZ

VANCOUVER (CP) — About 485 members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union, Local 433, went on strike today at Crown Zellerbach Ltd.'s paper products division in Richmond.

The primary pulp and paper industry has been shut down since July 16 by strikes by 13,000 members of CPU and the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada.

All 20 pulp mills in British Columbia are closed and about 25,000 of the 29,000 members of the coast locals of the International Woodworkers of America are out of work because of soft timber markets and strikes by pulp workers.

NEWS BRIEFS

Bus Drivers Accept

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Stage Lines drivers have voted to accept a two-year contract that will give them parity with International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers truck drivers by Nov. 1, 1976, an amalgamated transit union spokesman said Sunday. ATU business agent Bill Link said workers voted to accept an agreement, which expires March 31, 1977, giving them a raise to $8.90 an hour from a base rate of $6.34 an hour by the second year of the agreement.

Statement Soon

OTTAWA (CP) — A statement on the bilingualism dispute involving aircraft pilots is expected from Transport Minister Jean Marchand within two days, spokesmen said today.

Bogota Slaying

BOGOTA (AP) — Gunmen in a speeding car assassinated the inspector-general of the Colombian army today as he was being driven to the defence ministry in a limousine.

Features Trimmed

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The Vancouver Province today began cutbacks in "less essential features" to save newsprint during the current strike in British Columbia's pulp and paper industry. The morning daily dropped its television guide, word puzzle and compressed its daily racing form, among other reductions. The afteronon Vancouver Sun is expected to soon announce similar cutbacks.

ROBBERY BY THE BOOK

DETROIT (UPI) — Life imitated art in Detroit again this weekend: Two gunmen robbed five passengers aboard a city bus.

It was the third consecutive weekend gunmen have robbed Detroit area buses, and the latest holdup mirrored a sequence in "Fifty-Two Pickup," a popular novel set in Detroit.

"I don't think these guys read books," a policeman said. "They just steal."

This time, police said, the gunmen got away with about $160 after hijacking the Greyhound bus. There were no injuries.

Boston: 80 Arrests In Busing Protest

Times News Services

BOSTON — Riot-garbed police clashed with hundreds of rock and bottle throwing demonstrators near Charleston High School today and at least 80 persons were arrested near South Boston High as the city began its second year of court-ordered classroom desegregation.

An estimated 400 anti-busing demonstrators gathered in front of a housing project a block downhill from the Charlestown school, hurling rocks and bottles, shouting epithets and throwing the burning an effigy of a black man from the top of a building.

Charlestown High was not involved in the opening phase of desegration last fall.

Foes of busing, who staged a small, peaceful demonstration at city hall Sunday, vowed a boycott of classes similar to one which dropped high school attendance on opening day last year to 59.9 per cent.

Motorcycle police were assigned to escort buses to and from school and a police helicopter was used to spot any roving gangs.

An additional 500 guardsmen were placed on active duty in the state and units of the 82nd Airborne Division, at Fort Bragg, N.C., were placed on standby.

Officials had feared a police contract dispute might lead to a "sick-in" by police today. But Chester Broderick, president of the Boston police patrolman's association, urged all members to "be on the line"

Meanwhile, in Louisville, Ky., armed police and National Guardsmen rode school buses today after four days of anti-busing violence in which an estimated 200 persons were injured and about 500 persons were arrested.

U.S. District Court Judge James F. Gordon issued the order Sunday following the weekend of violent protests.

Todd Hollenbach, the county's chief executive, blamed the problems on the Ku Klux Klan, outsiders and "the frustrated and the drunken."

Authorities would "Move swiftly with as much force as is necessary to maintain public order," he said.

B.C. Fed Slams Beryl

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor attacked the federal Food Prices Review Board and chairman Beryl Plumtre today.

Federation secretary Len Guy said in a prepared statement he disagrees with the board's call for B.C. government intervention in the wage dispute that has shut 125 Vancouver area supermarkets.

Guy said government intervention would discriminate against the workers and amount to "nothing more than a backdoor attempt at wage controls without even any mention of price control"

The federation said the board conducted a study which concludes a freely-negotiated settlement would result in "unreasonable wage gains," but did not define what is reasonable.

RIOT POLICE BREAK UP PARTY

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty-four persons, ranging in age from 16 to 20, were held in custody overnight after 35 RCMP officers and police dogs were called in to break up a party Saturday that degenerated into an unlawful assembly.

An RCMP spokesman said the 24 persons, two of them girls, will appear Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in court — eight of them appearing each day. Charges would probably be laid Monday or Tuesday.

Those arrested during the near-riot were released from jail Sunday on promises to appear in court.

A crowd, which numbered as many as 300 at the peak of the incident, hurled bottles, rocks and insults at police. Two RCMP officers suffered minor injuries and a British Columbia Hydro bus driver was dragged from his vehicle and jostled.

Police were first called to the party in the 300-block of Queens Avenue about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The situation deteriorated until about 1:30 a.m. Sunday when police used a hailer three times to urge the crowd to disperse. When this was ignored, 20 police in riot gear moved in and began making arrests.

7 Sought On Missing Plane

A search was mounted today for four adults and three children, missing on a flight from Rivers Inlet to Vancouver.

Names of the missing are being withheld until next of kin are notified by a Pacific Rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman said missing are three adult passenges, the pilot and three children.

The spokesman said the Cessna 180 aircraft was last reported Sunday evening when it set down at Sullivan Bay on North Broughton Island in Kingcombe Inlet.

He said Sullivan Bay was one hour and 20 minutes flying time from Vancouver.

Is It "Anti-American" To Say An Unkind Word?

Columnsists sometimes develop the protective hide of the rhinoceros, fancy themselves immune to any epithet and generally accept criticisms of their opinions with, at least, a wan smile. But the charge of "anti-Americanism" is a new form of abuse that's sure to penetrate the thickest skin and I don't mind admitting it's penetrated mine.

All of this began a couple of weeks ago when, in what I thought were the mildest of terms ,I documented the failings of certain American tourists. I took pains to point out that it was a minority of travellers abroad who were performing a disservice to their country, an opinion that's been retailed so often by travel writers, notably American travel writers, that it hardly qualifies as an original concept.

The result has been a virtual torrent of cries of "anti-Americanism," both from resident Canadians, visiting Americans and those many Americans who, for reasons of their own, have settled in this country. The point of the column in question has simply been swept away by invective.

Several readers, for example, have sent me a piece by James K. Nesbitt, of our town, which appeared in the Vancouver Sun. Mr .Nesbitt accuses me of "sneering in print" and goes on, "He looks upon Americans as loud, crude, vulgar, treacherous, stupid, dirty, silly, unbearable, intolerable, obnoxious" and observes, "he found the Americans with their awful garb, with their crackling voices, lowering the tone and the dignity of the grand old Empress."

I can only hope that Jimmy is a fairer historian than he is as a current commentator since absolutely none of these accusations were made or even suggested in the column I wrote.

★ ★ ★

Several visiting Americans took the same line, reading far more into the column that was there, and one dear boy has had the piece Xeroxed and sent to every travel agency in the United States "to show," he writes, "the degree of hate that Canadians hold to American visitors. I regret every dime that I spent in your country."

This is such a hysterical reaction that it seems doubly strange from a man who represents the most powerful nation on earth and makes you wonder if it is not a national neurosis.

Yet the reaction from many Victorians has been as hostile. One reader, a Mrs. Edith A. Muir, of Faircliff Lane, has gone so far as to cancel her subscription to the Times because of "this vitriolic, disgusting diatribe of bad taste and cowardice," clearly suggesting that we should never be beastly to visitors from whom we reap "such a handsome harvest of dollars each year."

"It isn't that I mind losing Mrs. Muir, but when a reader takes that means of disagreeing with an opinion it makes a mockery of the basic freedom of expression.

What disturbed me most is the implication that it is "anti-American" to express any legitimate opinion that individual Americans or their governments are anything less than heroic.

I wonder if Jimmy Nesbitt, as an historian, has been above that sort of exercise, himself, in his years as a newspaperman? I would like to know, for example, what, if any, reaction he may have had when he learned that President John F. Kennedy had openly lied when he denied, as Adlai Stevenson unwittingly denied to the United Nations, that the Americans had no part in the Bay of Pigs armed invasion of Cuba when, in fact, the invaders were trained by the Americans and provided with air cover by the Americans.

Are we "anti-American" or is it a right and a duty to dissociate ourselves, for example, from a government agency that plotted and carried out the assassinations of the leaders of other nations and, in the case of Chile, to participate actively in an armed insurrection that took the life of a freely-elected president?

Is it "anti-American" to have spoken out at the heartless and futile bombing of unprotected cities in the Viet Nam adventure or an American president's secret and undeclared war against Cambodia?

Is it "anti-American" to have been sickened by the spectacle of a foul-mouthed American president and vice-president and so many of the men around them being run out of office for their abuses of power through fraud, political chicanery and outright lying?

Is it "anti-American" to think back over the long list of fascists who have been the great and good friends of America, who have used American arms and military training to keep the "stability" of feudal culture, the Francisco Francos, the Salazars, the Batistas, the Duvaliers ,the Ching Kai-Sheks, the Stroessners, the tin-pot dictators of South America who are able to keep a people in bondage only with the assist of America?

I do not think of myself as "anti-American." I respect many of their institutions, their writers, their artists, their musicians, their vitality as a nation, their own capacity for dissent that has righted so many wrongs.

But I'm dam'd if I'll agree that it is a diatribe or a message of hate or, as Mrs. Muir put it, "a pipsqueale tickling the eagle's feathers" to write the simple truth.

Homes 'Despoliation' Continues

SORENSON
. . . seeks policy

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

Old homes continue to be flattened by bulldozers in the Fern-Chestnut area near Royal Jubilee Hospital, despite clear indications from Victoria city council that it has no intention of rezoning the area for apartment development.

H. H. Sorensen, of 1829 Fern, spokesman for a group of concerned residents, said today a third home was demolished on Friday and the bulldozers doing the wrecking job also heavily damaged the building at 1837 Fern, home of former B.C. premier John Oliver.

"It backed into the house twice leaving big gashes," said Sorensen, "and they also took out the old leaded windows and other fittings.

"In all they must have cleared about an acre of old gardens and orchards."

Last month Sorensen drew city council's attention to the systematic "despoliation" of the neighborhood, and at the time Mayor Peter Pollen condemned the actions of developer Neil de Macedo as "completely unacceptable".

Pollen, who toured the area with aldermen and talked to residents last Thursday — the day before the latest demolition work — said at the weekend the deliberate running down of the Fern-Chestnut area is an example of blockbusting "of the most primitive, outrageous type".

"I am outraged by this," said Pollen. "I have followed this situation for about five years — it was the former mayor of Victoria, Claude Harrison, who first brought it to my attention."

He said a master plan for Victoria, produced in 1965 by the now-defunct Capital Regional Planning Board of B.C., had suggested "in a theoretical way" that the Fernwood district be earmarked for substantial multiple-dwelling redevelopment.

"Using this report as the basis for the rape, some people have been hacking away at this community."

The mayor said some area residents have been under considerable pressure to sell their homes.

He cited a November, 1971, letter to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rendle, 1853 Fern, from William Weldon, an associate of de Macedo's.

The letter noted that talks were in "favorable progress" with City Hall's planning department concerning closure of a narrow lane giving access to a small neighborhood park (Closure was necessary for the developer's proposed land assembly).

"I hope you realize we do not enjoy asking people to relocate but you must appreciate our position from an investment point of view," the letter stated.

"Unfortunately, due to business pressures on Mr. de Macedo and myself we may be forced to build on the property surrounding your own. We sincerely hope the situation will not deteriorate to this degree."

Pollen's comment on the letter: "I think this is a conspiracy to put these people's homes in jeopardy. It's absolutely deplorable."

But Sorensen said the Rendles have been on the receiving end of even more pressure and threats. On one occasion they were sent a copy of an agreement for sale, duly completed and signed on behalf of the developer, "and all they had to do was sign on the dotted line."

Rendle, however, has no intention of yielding to the pressure and has just installed a new roof on his home.

Developer de Macedo demolished two of the homes on his Fern-area holdings in June, shortly after council rejected his application for rezoning to build a 46-suite condominium.

Last month, when residents' complaints surfaced at City Hall, he told the Times he had no plans to submit a second rezoning application. He said his only motive in demolishing homes that were "beyond repair" was to clean up a run-down area.

Sorensen and his neighbors maintain that most of the homes concerned were, or are, in reasonable to good condition and those that had deteriorated did so purely through neglect.

Sorensen's latest letter to council on behalf of the Fern Street Area Association requests an early policy statement "declaring they have no intention of changing the single-family dwelling zoning of the area in the foreseeable future."

Several council members interviewed by the Times indicated their willingness to support such a policy statement, but stressed they would not want to tie the hands of future councils with any guarantee for an indefinite period.

"Council has no current intention of changing the zoning, and I can't foresee this council doing so," said Ald. Mike Young.

"The present council is unalterably opposed to what appears to be blockbusting in the Fern Street area," remarked Ald. Malcolm Anderson. "We are all united in that respect."

Said Ald. Alf Hood, chairman of the zoning and planning committee: "I am sure council will take the position that merely because property has been allowed to deteriorate, that in itself is not justification for rezoning."

But, until the Municipal Act is changed by the provincial government, there appears to be no hope that city council can grant another request of the frightened residents of Fern Street.

They want the city to refuse demolition permits until the developers concerned have obtained rezoning and full approval of their plans.

Legal sources say the city has no power to withhold demolition permits except where the property in question has a heritage designation imposed by bylaw.

In any case, said several aldermen, exercising such discretion would prove enormously difficult, involving as it does interference with basic property rights.

Winery Plans To Move Out

Jordan Wines Ltd. plans to move its $5 million winery to the mainland but no date has been set for the change, company officials said today.

About 75 permanent employees would be affected. The winery hires a peak of more than 115 at harvest time.

The company is negotiating with Surrey municipal officials for permission to buy 15 acres of land and build a winery there.

Preliminary negotiations have been completed and the proposal will go to Surrey council some time today.

The 15-acre parcel for which Jordan Wines is negotiating is part of a proposed 70-acre light-industrial belt the municipality is establishing. The provincial government owns 20 acres of the parcel, the municipality about 15 and private owners another 35 acres.

Jordans plans to establish a tour winery, similar to those in California, including a wine-tasting room and vineyard.

The winery has been in the Victoria area for 52 years. It was long known as Growers Wine but in 1973 it was sold to Canadian Breweries which owns Jordan Wines, along with Castle and Ste. Michelle.

The winery was consecutively called Castle, Jordan and Ste. Michelle.

The company has experienced difficulties in marketing its products because it must import grapes from the Okanagan, process them here and then ship most of the wine back to the mainland.

Difficulty in obtaining suitable mainland sites has presented an earlier move to the mainland.

Q. I would like to obtain information on the habits of swallows, including facts on usual lifespan, whether they return to the same nests and when they fly south? — H. H.

A. The provincial ornithologist says the lifespan of a swallow is usually short and often die in their first year. But lifespan can range from two to three years. Swallows tend to return to the same vicinity and migration usually begins in late August or early September, when they fly to California or Mexico.

Old Schools to Be Studied For Ways to Save Money

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

Starting Tuesday evening Greater Victoria school trustees will begin what is expected to be a lengthy examination of older schools in the district.

Object is to find ways to save money, either by consolidating schools, closing obsolete school buildings or other methods.

Some possible ways of doing this are outlined in a report prepared for the trustees by Sig Dietze, who was head of the construction and maintenance department until the end of August.

Dietze says that Central junior high school is now overcrowded and is scheduled to have a $300,000 addition built.

"A few blocks north of Central, Victoria secondary school could accommodate several hundred additional students," says the report.

"Even without additional construction, Central should be able to accommodate all comers by 1979."

So why not move Central Grade 10s to Vic High until 1979 and skip the new addition, says the report.

Economically the idea is sound, it says, but for personal and social reasons it would be hard to make the shift because many parents, students and teachers might object.

Another example is Lampson elementary school, now scheduled for a $311,000 addition.

Yet the combined student enrolment of Lampson, Macaulay and Rockheights elementary schools is dropping, says the report, and by 1979 the three schools could be accommodated in Macaulay and Rockheights alone.

"If our projections are correct, all this expense (at the combined enrolment of Lampson) may be unnecessary," says the report.

"There are however, considerable community pressures to proceed with major construction at Lampson . . .

"Logistically, Lampson could be closed by 1979. Economically this would be desirable . . . Educationally the pupils would be as well served by attending Rockheights and Macaulay.

"But for personal and social reasons it would be an undesirable move."

Other possible money-saving steps suggested in the report:

— Move students from South Park school into Margaret Jenkins elementary, which has many vacant classrooms, so two schools would be combined in one building.

— Halt plans to build the 320-student Edgelow elementary school in the Gordon Head area and bus children back to Willows elementary, which has room for them.

"Educationally, busing is probaby not desirable for elementary school children," the report adds.

"Social consequences would doubtless also be of major concern."

— Close Burnside elementary in 1976, and possibly use the building for supplies or as a teacher centre.

— Don't build the planned science wing on Lansdowne junior secondary school. Instead, use the Dean Heights junior secondary building for Lansdowne after Dean Heights students are moved to the planned careers school at S. J. Willis junior secondary.

The school board is expected to spend several months discussing the various proposals.

Boy Fair After Bike Hits Truck

A 14-year-old boy who rode his bicycle into a moving truck is in fair condition today at Royal Jubilee Hospital with severe cuts to his left arm and leg.

Gordon Bartleman, 850 Stellys Cross Rd., Brentwood Bay, was taken to hospital after the accident that occurred at his home at 3:05 p.m. Sunday, Central Saanich police said.

Bartleman rode out of his driveway onto the street and hit a truck operated by Ronald E. Crocker of Brentwood Bay.

Police said bushes cut down motorist's vision.

THIEVES GET $2,000 IN BURGLARY

Thieves took $2,90 in an Esquimalt break-in Saturday that police say occurred at a home adjoining a grocery store.

About $1,000 in U.S. currency, $800 Canadian and $200 in cheques were stolen from the home of Andrew Lavis at A B Grocery, 526 Head St.

The theft was reported around midnight, say police, and occurred sometime earlier in the evening when no one was home.

Bats Found Free Of Lethal Rabies

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

Four bats killed or found dead in Greater Victoria this summer underwent laboratory examination for rabies and all proved to be free of the lethal disease.

But across British Columbia there have been seven cases in recent months of bats which did turn out to be rabid. Two were found in the Comox district on Vancouver Island.

Dr. Allan Arneil, regional health officer for the Capital district, said one of the four local suspect bats were killed after "dive-bombing" some construction workers.

Two others were found dead in houses and the fourth, reported to be dead in a clump of grass, proved very much alive when collected for analysis.

None of the seven positive cases in the province produced a fatality among people, but that doesn't mean those who encounter bats behaving in a peculiar manner shouldn't take great care said Dr. A. A. Larsen, provincial epidemiologist.

They should, because rabies if untreated is always fatal, he said. There is only one case in medical literature suggesting otherwise and in that case there's some question whether the victim actually had rabies.

Larsen said he knows of no case in B.C. where anyone has died of rabies. But an incident on the Gulf Islands this summer gave an American family of tourists and local authorities a scare.

It began when a boy in the family had a bat light on his shoulder and bite him on the ear in a Washington state park. The father caught the bat, which was shipped away for analysis while the family moved on to holiday on the islands.

American authorities notified local health officials that tests showed the bat was rabid and the hunt for the family began. The RCMP eventually located them on Thetis Island and the youngster was flown home for treatment.

Larsen said there are two things for everyone to bear in mind if they became involved in an incident with a bat suspected of being rabid.

First is to capture the bat, without "mashing" it. It's the bat's brain which has to be studied and flattening a bat with a shovel doesn't help. The bat needs to be preserved too, and Larsen suggests putting it in a heavy plastic bag and then keeping it in a refrigerator until it can be picked up by health staff.

Second, of course, is to seek medical help promptly.

Where the suspect bat escapes, doctors usually feel compelled to recommend anti-rabies treatment as the safest course. Treatment involved injections over 21 consecutive days and Larsen has described the treatment as "a miserable thing."

The injections produce "local tenderness" and because they involve a protein foreign to the body, there are varying degrees of reaction.

Larsen said the vaccine still being used was developed in the last century. A new vaccine developed in Toronto could prove safer and more effective but there's a problem with it.

Rabies is a disease which no one dares experiment with because if the vaccine fails, the patient is dead. The new vaccine has never been tested in a criticial situation, he said.

When bats act peculiar, take care

Weed Project Success

A pilot project carried out under the supervision of Dr. Bob Langford this summer has proved lake weeds can be easily composted.

The project was funded by Greater Victoria Environmental Centre to which Langford will be submitting a report.

Langford said today his first recommendation will be to buy a weed-cutting machine that will gather and compress the weeds.

This summer, weeds from Beaver Lake were put in five double bins in three different combinations — hay and weeds, sawdust and weeds and weeds only.

In two weeks all combinations were broken down into humus, the hay and weeds producing the best compost.

The weeds were turned from one side of the double bin to the other twice a week.

"The key is to keep oxygen by moving the weeds," Langford said today. "Even if people just took the weeds and added grass clippings and leaves it would make good compost."

During the summer, five students kept bins filled with weeds that were available to the public for mulch and compost bins.

Langford said lake weeds are a problem for the Capital Regional District and not confined to Saanich lakes.
